Forbes Gives Lie To Witness In Graft Trial

Former Chief Of Veterans Bureau Denies All Charges Of Abuse Of Office

REFUTES SAWYER STORY

Witness Says Allegations Regarding Information On Contracts Is False

Washington, D. C.—Piecing out details of the charges against him, former Director Charles R. Forbes of the Veterans' bureau put new thrills into the senate veterans situation Wednesday, flatly contracting the testimony of several previous witnesses.

He passed the lie direct to Elias H. Mortimer of Philadelphia who had told the investigating committee that under Forbes' administration confidential information was furnished certain contractors regarding proposed hospital sites.

"If Mortimer states that," the former director said, "he states that as a lie."

Then he turned to Mortimer, who was seated at a table with the committee counsel, and exclaimed: "You lie." Chairman Reed of the committee interposed.

"You are testifying to the committee," the chairman said, "and it is not necessary for you to address other persons."

The witness also contradicted directly the testimony of Dr. Charles E. Sawyer, personal friend and physician of President Harding.

James S. Easby-Smith, counsel for Forbes, read into the record a requisition on the Veterans' bureau for supplies for the soldiers' home at Dayton, O., made by General Sawyer. It called for twenty barrels of whiskey, twenty barrels of alcohol, 100,000 sheets, 100,000 towels, 50,000 blankets, 100,000 yards of gauze and 100,000 yards of gauze bandage. This requisition, Forbes said, he refused to fill.

"Why?" asked the committee chairman, Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania.

"The quantities were excessive," Forbes responded.

SAY STORY IS FALSE

The witness characterized as "absolutely false" the testimony of Mortimer that the Thompson-Black Co., of Chicago, which Mortimer said he represented, was furnished with a "confidential" list of proposed sites for hospitals, so it could elect the one on which it preferred to build.

Questioned about his relations with Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer, Forbes said he met Mrs. Mortimer first at the Veterans' bureau and soon afterwards was introduced to Mortimer. He denied that Mrs. Mortimer was at the bureau on soldier welfare work, saying she was there to visit a woman employee.

He said he became "fairly intimate" with the Mortimers and found them "agreeable companions." Coming then to the famous Pacific coast trip with them in the summer of 1922, Forbes said it was Mortimer who suggested that he and Mrs. Mortimer accompany the Forbes party to the west as Mortimer never had been to that section.

"I stated that there would be a lot of men in the party," the witness continued, "but that I did not see any objection to their going if they desired."

Forbes testified as to the arrangement of the rooms of his official party at the Drake hotel, Chicago, where Mortimer claims he loaned Forbes $5,000 in the form of ten $500 bills.

Up to that time, Forbes said, Mortimer had been talking about contracts. "But I never gave him any encouragement," he added.

He Eats 'Em Only Alive

Philadelphia—A giant python at the Philadelphia zoo has gone eight months without food because it will take nothing but a live animal. Keepers have refrained from feeding the serpent through the fear that the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals might object. This fear has been dispelled and next week the python will be fed a live pig weighing 50 pounds.

The keeper appealed to Frank B. Rutherford, manager of the Pennsylvania S. P. C. A., who said "the snake must be fed, no matter how. While it may be cruel to let the pig suffer such a death, it is far more cruel to let the serpent expire from starvation."

Rutherford declared the pig would suffer a humane death. "When the porker is put into the reptile's cage there is a sudden spring, a flash of coils and the pig's life is extinct in an instant," he said.

BANDITS SHOOT MESSENGERS IN DARING HOLDUP

Yeggs Kill Bank Employees In Subway Station And Escape With $43,600

New York—Four bank messengers were murdered by two bandits who took $43,600 from them in a spectacular holdup Wednesday at the Fifty-Fifth street station of the west end subway line in Brooklyn.

The station was filled with persons on their way to work when the bandits opened fire, later fleeing with their haul in an automobile for which the police have sent out a general alarm within a fifty mile radius of the city.

The messengers who were shot were William S. Barlow and William H. McLaughlin, both of Brooklyn and employed by the West End bank. They were taking the money to another bank.

WILL TEST SANITY OF K. K. K. SLAYER

Trial Of Attorney Expected To Be Battle Of Alienists On Both Sides

Atlanta, Ga.—An announcement that the serum test used to determine whether P. E. Fox, charged with murder in connection with the shooting of W. S. Coburn, Ku Klux Klan attorney, is insane is the latest development in the case early Wednesday. Specialists Wednesday were examining in a laboratory a specimen of spinal fluid taken from Fox late Tuesday according to experts on mental disorders, the laboratory analysis will determine whether Fox is insane.

Indications were that the trial set for Dec. 12, will develop into a battle of alienists with authorities on mental disorders taking the stand for both the prosecution and defense.

M'MASTER RENEWS WAR ON GAS PRICE

Attorney Of Independent Dealers Seeks Injunction To Prevent Cut

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Gasoline went on sale at the state penitentiary here at 15 cents the gallon, under instructions of Governor W. H. McMaster, who Tuesday ordered the state highway depot at Mitchell to sell it at the same price.

Independents and the Standard Oil Co. are selling gasoline in South Dakota for 18 cents the gallon.

George Danforth, local attorney on behalf of independent dealers, has started an investigation of the governor's action and will try immediately to stop the state competition in retailing gasoline, he announced Tuesday night. He will attempt to obtain either a writ of prohibition from the state supreme court or an injunction from a lower court, Mr. Danforth said.

Oil Price Cut 20 Cents A Barrel In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh—A cut of 20 cents a barrel, making the price $1.25, was announced at the opening of the market Wednesday in Corning grade oil in Buckeye Pipe Co. lines. There was no change in Corning when the new prices were announced yesterday.

Coolidge Backs Plan For Revision Of Tax

Oshkosh Court Hears Row On W. AND N. SALE

Former Senator Charges Rail Chief Distorted Facts To Hasten Deal

Oshkosh—A legal battle of considerable interest is in progress in circuit court here between William M. Bray, Oshkosh business man and former state senator, and John S. Jones, Ohio multimillionaire. An attempt is being made by Mr. Bray to show that there was fraud in a railroad stock transaction, involving a large interest in the Wisconsin and Northern railroad, now operated by the Soo line. Mr. Bray was the owner of a large amount of common stock in the road. Mr. Jones was president. C. H. Hartley, who is one of the codefendants in the action was general manager and secretary of the road.

The plaintiff, Mr. Bray, on the stand, a greater part of Tuesday, told of disposing of his interests in the road at a greatly reduced price, from what it was valued at, under the supposition that he was receiving a fair price. He mentioned selling $77,720 worth of common stock in the road to Mr. Jones for the sum of $7,720 because Mr. Hartley as general manager had "painted a gloomy picture of the prospects of the road," telling him it was possible additional money would be required to safeguard the rapidly depreciating stock. He held on to it, Mr. Bray said, finally agreed to sell, whereupon Mr. Jones turned around and sold the road to the Soo at a big profit. He claims he was not told of the true situation and asks that the sale be set aside by the court.

Mellon Stirs Up Biggest Political Upheaval Since President Took Office By Proposal Of Cut

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—President Coolidge stands squarely behind Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his proposal that telegrams from all parts of the country be pouring in commending Mr. Mellon for having proposed tax revision. Although opinions may differ as to just what the method of revision will be, the general idea of revising the revenue laws seems to have struck a popular chord—at least that's the first impression.

Some members of congress think taxes could be reduced and a bonus undertaken for the able-bodied. There would be no doubt about this, of course, if France, Italy and the other European powers who owe America vast sums would only begin paying interest on the war debt. Mr. Mellon is of the opinion that if the country wants a bonus for the able-bodied there must be an increase instead of decrease in taxation and he isn't expecting any money from the European debtors.

OVERSHADOW OTHER ISSUES

Politics, Mr. Mellon's suggestions have begun to overshadow all other issues including the world-courts and the participation of the United States in European affairs. Taxes present an issue that can be thoroughly understood by millions of voters. For Mr. Mellon has offered a concrete saving to the seven million persons and corporations who have handed in tax returns in previous years.

Much will depend, of course, on what procedure is adopted in congress. If the tax bill should get right away, its passage would have an important effect on bonus legislation later on. Reports lately from American Legion quarters have been to the effect:

DOLLAR KINGS TO TALK IN RUM TRIAL

Several Prominent Millionaires Will Testify In Grommes-Ullrich Case

Chicago—The appearance as witnesses of several socially prominent millionaires is expected to lend color to the Grommes and Ullrich "rum dividend" trial that is getting under way here. Selection of a jury to try the case continued before federal Judge Evan A. Evans Wednesday.

Among the millionaires to be called as witnesses are Potter Palmer, Augustus S. Peabody, Townsend Netcher and Scott Durand. Together with nearly 150 other Chicagoans, they are said to have shared in the distribution of the $200,000 worth of liquor stocks of Grommes and Ullrich, distributed among designated stockholders.

FIVE CITIES CLAIM G. O. P. CONVENTION

Chicago, Des Moines, Cleveland, San Francisco And Denver Enter Race

Washington—Delegations representing five cities arrived here to present to the Republican national committee their claims to the 1924 national convention.

The cities bidding for the convention are Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Des Moines, and Cleveland.

Fred W. Upam, treasurer of the national committee who will present the bid of Chicago, said that he felt it was practically assured the convention would go to that city. He added that the week of June 9, was under consideration as the meeting date. Equal confidence was expressed by Representative Burton, of Ohio, who will present an invitation from Cleveland, and by spokesman for the other delegations.

The question will come up Thursday at hearing before a subcommittee, although the actual decision will not be made until the committee itself meets here in December.

TEACHERS RESIGN WHEN PRINCIPAL KEEPS POST

Loyal Wis.—Resignation of nine teachers in the public and high schools here was reported Wednesday following a demand said to have been made by that Principal S. A. Williams resign because of the alleged ill-treatment of school children for infraction of school rules.

The demand that he resign is said to have met with refusal on the part of Williams.

Wrigley Loses Fight In $3,718,000 Damage Suit

Chicago—Damages amounting to $3,718,000 must be paid by the William Wrigley Jr. Co., chewing gum makers, to the L. P. Larson Chewing Gum Co., for infringement on a copyrighted gum package, according to an order of Charles B. Morrison, federal master in chancery. Litigation has been in progress five years.

The order decided the Wrigley Co. owed the rival concern $2,850,000 and interest at 8 per cent since Nov. 13, 1918. The gum wrapper involved was known as "doublemint." In 1915 the Wrigley Co. sued the Larson Co. for alleged infringements on a Wrigley doublemint wrapper by a Larson winter-mint wrapper. The latter company contended the doublemint wrapper was used prior to the time the Wrigley company used it.

The federal circuit court of appeals in 1918 held that the Wrigley Co. had infringed and awarded profits made by Wrigley on doublemint to Larson. The Wrigley Co., contended no profits had been made and the case was referred to the master-in-chancery for an accounting.

A reserve of $7,000,000 is understood to have been accumulated by the Wrigley Co. to meet any emergency and if there is no further litigation and the case is settled the status of the stockholders will not be affected.

The verdict of the master came only a day after the Wrigley Co. placed 300,000 shares of new stock on the market.

Britan Is Inclined To Drop Action In Crown Prince's Return Home

Galli Curci Quits In Fit Of Tantrums

New York—The policy of refusing recognition of individual stars, which the Chicago Civic Opera Co. of the services of Madame Amelita Galli-Curci, after this season.

Denied her request to open this season in her favorite opera "Dinorah," Madame Galli-Curci announced Tuesday night she would terminate her connection with the company after fulfilling this season's contract, and would appear hereafter only with the Metropolitan Opera Co. and in concert.

Asserting that her artistic responsibilities demanded that she open her Chicago repertoire on Dec. 3, with a revival of "Dinorah" rather than in "Lakme" which the management had decreed, Galli-Curci charged that officials of the company had refused to show her the customary consideration which she had received previously in her seven years association with the organization. She blamed commercialism for the management's new policy.

ENGLAND ANGRY OVER PROSPECT OF ELECTIONS

All Parties Combine In Blaming Baldwin For Undesired Ballotting

London—Probably the first question a foreigner would ask after reading Wednesday's editorial comment on the impending dissolution of parliament would be "Why is this country having an election? Clearly nobody wants it."

This disinclination to take a poll of the electorate on the protection question is manifested by all parties. The government's supporters reluctantly acquiesce while their political opponents are disgusted and resentful. Some of the comments are vicious and variously with unimpaired levity, shabby maneuvering, trickiness and with harink lapsed from all the traditional honor and decency of British public life.

CAUSED STOCK SLUMP

Known? In the financial circles of London that a general election was imminent caused a loss of 52,000,000 pounds sterling in the value of gilt-edged stocks on the London exchange in the short space of two days.

Although prospects of election always have an unsettling effect on the market, the fact that the present poll is only a few weeks away has had the most depressing result since the days of the Gladstone government's defeat over home rule. Another cause of the present depression has been the fact that Labor victory would mean an immediate capital levy.

MANY WOMEN CANDIDATES

One of the outstanding features of the election will be the number of women candidates. It is as yet too early to give anything like a complete list, but it is estimated that between thirty and forty women will seek admission to the house of commons.

Lady Astor will again appeal to her Plymouth electorate and it is understood that Mrs. Wintringham will ask her own constituency to return her. It is less certain that the third woman member of the present house, Mrs. Phillips, will make a contest for her Berwick seat. She is likely to retire in favor of her husband, whom she was chosen to succeed when he was unseated.

IDENTIFY WOMAN FOUND BURNT IN ALABAMA CHURCH

Officials Announce Finding In Connection With Trial Of Alleged Slayer

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Irene Curley of Bessemer, Ala., was Wednesday named by Solicitor E. J. Clarkson, as the woman who was slain near here on the night of October 30, and whose body was partly cremated in a fire which destroyed a Negro church. Announcement of the identification came at the opening of the preliminary hearing of Alf Winchester, who is charged with murder in connection with the case.

The woman was also known as Irene Hughes, the solicitor said. Tuscaloosa Co. and city officials were aided in solving the mystery which has surrounded the slaying of the woman, by Jefferson county authorities. Officers of both counties were agreed in the identification of the victim and they said they were prepared to establish the identity in court.

Portions of the body were found in the ashes of the church in an isolated rural community, a few hours after fire had consumed the building. Pathologists said the woman was youthful and of the white race.

WITNESS VANISHES IN BOND THEFT CASE

Chicago—Investigation of the million dollar bond and jewel robbery of the Werner Brothers' jewelry deposit vaults became complicated Wednesday when a report was received from Buffalo, N. Y., that William McGirr, arrested there after he had disposed of $16,000 worth of the missing bonds, and later released on bail, had disappeared.

Chicago detectives had gone to Buffalo to question McGirr relative to any connection he may have had with Julian C. Ryer, Attorney Howard Blackford, taxicab company organizer, and Thomas Wassburg, bond salesman, all of Chicago, charged with conspiracy and receiving stolen property. Police assert the three men have confessed.

UTAH SENATOR WOULD STOP MARGIN TRADING

Washington, D. C.—Margin trading in stocks, bonds, grain and cotton would be prohibited by a bill which Senator King, Democrat, Utah, is preparing for introduction as soon as congress meets.

The money of the country, which should be available for agricultural and industrial purposes," he said Wednesday. "Is now held in large quantity in New York to finance margin trading. By prohibiting such trading that money would be released for more beneficial use by the people."

France Contemplates Seizure Of German Cities As Punishment

BELGIANS ASK SURRENDER

Brussels Deputies Request Government To Prevent Ex-kaiser's Escape

Paris—The allied council of ambassadors failed to consider at its meeting Wednesday the question of what action should be taken in connection with return of the former crown prince to Germany and to Germany's attitude regarding the resumption of allied military control. The session was devoted to routing work and it is understood the ambassadors avoided mentioning these two questions because the Allies were not in accord as to the proper course of action.

Great Britain, which took the initiative in the sending of a courteous note to Germany regarding the return of Frederick William, now is said to be desirous of dropping the whole matter, while France, which was at first indifferent but later came to favor action of some sort, is ready for such action.

The occupation of Hamburg and important railroad centers east of the Rhine are spoken of in French circles as possible penalties for the prince's return. French officials, realize that the British government in the throes of an election would dislike to commit that country to an extended naval military operation, yet the government would run a sorry figure before the voters, it is felt here, if the Hohenzollerns were allowed to resume possession of Germany without attempts by the allies to interfere.

WANT EXTRADITION

Brussels—Deputies Van Hock, Bousse and Mathieu, respectively members of the Catholic, Liberal and Socialist parties, served notice on the government Wednesday that they would interpellate into the measures the Belgian government intends taking in view of the return of the crown prince to Germany. The interpellators will demand that the government ask the extradition of the crown prince in conformity with article 223 of the treaty of Versailles.

The three deputies, the first two of which belong to the governmental majority, also will request the government to take measures to prevent a similar return to Germany of the ex-kaiser, "which is in course of preparation." The interpellations contain criticisms of Holland's attitude. It is expected they will be presented Thursday.

ROAD BUILDING IS NOT LIMITED BY 2 MILLS TAX LAW

Board Can Provide Money For Highways In Excess Of 2 Mills Tax

Appropriations for highway construction in Outagamie county need not be limited by the statutory limitation of a 2 mill tax, according to an opinion which John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, has received from the office of the attorney general of Wisconsin. The opinion, written by Franklin E. Bump, assistant attorney general, declares that the 2 mills tax limitation placed by the statutes is not a limitation on money that can be provided by the county for road building.

The county highway committee, at its meeting Monday afternoon, announced that the board appropriate $125,000 for highway purposes in 1924. This amount was fixed because that is the sum that would be raised by 2 mills tax on the taxable property of Outagamie county. It is possible for the county board to increase the appropriation over that amount, according to the attorney general's opinion.

Mr. Bump also told District Attorney Lonsdorf that any taxes authorized for highway construction, under section 8306 of the statutes, may be used to meet state aid allocations for constructing roads. It will not be necessary, according to this opinion, for the county board to levy a separate tax to meet the state aid but money made available under section 8306 for highway purposes may be used to meet the state allotment.

STAGE

ROBERT RINGLING

The most boys, and girls too, perhaps to a lesser degree, the circus with its concomitants of clowns, horses, elephants, animals and all else, possesses an irresistible charm.

Not so with Robert Ringling, son of Charles E. Ringling of the famous five brothers of that name whose circus and its remarkable title have, for a long time, enriched the owners and made of them the foremost entertainment purveyors in their field in the world. Robert Ringling, had he so chosen, could have taken up the circus as his life work, but it made no appeal to him. At a very early age he exhibited a taste and desire for music that was not to be denied, and although not to be classified in any sense of the word as a "child phenomenon," it is true that he began the serious study of music when but a mere boy and has lived and thought music from then on.

But twenty-five years of age, an artistic career of unusual brilliancy is promised for this young American singer who will be heard here in joint recital with the beautiful and talented young coloratura soprano, Josephine Luchessa, together with Miss Margaret Carlisle, accompanist, forming a trio of musical stars who have created a furor wherever heard. Music lovers should make note of the date and place. Memorial Chapel Tuesday evening November 20th.

COUNTY ROAD TRUCK BREAKS LEEMAN BRIDGE

A county highway automobile truck broke through the bridge across the Wolf river near Leeman Tuesday afternoon but did not drop into the river. The truck was loaded with gravel which was being hauled from a gravel pit to improve the road near Leeman. A plank broke and an I beam turned down in the partial collapse. The truck had to be extricated by means of jacks and planks. No one was injured.

ONE NIGHT ABOUT AS BUSY AS ANOTHER IN APPLETON

The matter of changing the night of meeting from Tuesday to some other night was discussed at the meeting of Appleton Grocers' association Tuesday evening, but no action was taken. The change was suggested because of so many other meetings Tuesday evening that made it impossible for some members to attend. It was brought out during the discussion that other evenings of the week are about as fully occupied.

Youngsters Know How To Get Most Out Of Library

That children are as capable of using a card index too. A youngster of about 10 was discovered looking up "Penny and Sam" by Booth Tarkington, and although help was given him, he was on the right track and probably would have found what he wished in a short time.

Very few fail to say "thank you" when the books are charged and given to them, a courtesy which it is said is seldom noticed in other parts of the library. Caps of the boys are immediately doffed upon entering the room, the children reminding one another that this should be done. They make good use of the tiny chairs and tables that are placed at their disposal and it is customary to find the young folks using books and magazines that are non-circulating.

Adults often use this department to draw books for their children, but as a rule this place is reserved entirely for the smaller patrons of the library.

MAINE HONORS ITS WORLD WAR HEROES

Captain George Merkel Is Chief Speaker At Dedication Of Monument

Gallant service of soldiers of the town of Maine in the recent World War is to be commemorated Sunday afternoon by the unveiling of a monument which the town of Maine, as a community, has had hewn by the Appleton Marble and Granite works.

The complete program for the unveiling and dedication exercises has not yet been arranged, but Capt. George Merkel of Appleton, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, Mexican border service and the World War, has been asked to speak.

Subscriptions for the purchase of the stone have been gathered in the community within the last few weeks. The monument is of red granite, two feet and six inches wide and five feet high and bears a bronze panel. On the panel is engraved a dedicatory inscription and the names of the men who were in the World War service. It will be erected on the plat of the town hall on the Shippin-Shawano road, about one and one-half miles south of Leeman.

DELAY DIRECTORY TO RENAME STREETS

Appleton was to have had a new city directory before the end of the year, but its publication has been put over until some time next year. Wright Directory company of Milwaukee, which has published the directories issued of late years, started preliminary work on the new one last week and took contracts from some of the business firms for copies but cancelled them Wednesday.

The company gave as its reason for delaying the publication until next year the possibility of the streets being renamed and numbered.

BOARD CONSIDERS LOWEST BID FOR BUILDING SCHOOLS

Lowest Estimates Call For More Money Than Board
Of Education Can Spend

Bids of Bartleson and Ness of Green Bay for general construction; the American Heating Co., Superior, for heating; W. S. Patterson and Co. for plumbing and the Langsdorf Meyer company for electrical work in the two new junior high schools which Appleton proposes to erect, were retained for further consideration by the building committee of the board of education. This was decided at the adjourned meeting of the board on Tuesday afternoon. All other bids were rejected and the contractors' bonds or certified checks were returned to them by mail by Miss Carrie Morgan, secretary of the board.

What will be done with the bids that have been retained cannot be determined at once by the building committee. It is estimated roughly that the lowest bids as received on Monday call for something like $50,000 more than is available. Whether it will be advisable to reject all bids, revise the plans eliminating some of the desirable features which are not absolutely necessary and then advertise again for bids will be determined before the board is called again. Conferences with the architect are necessary to get an idea of what changes can be made and by what amounts these may be expected to reduce the new bids.

F. S. Bradford, council for the board in its building procedure was present at the meeting on Monday and on Tuesday. He was asked several questions on Tuesday morning concerning the legality of various ways of handling the situation. It is to be noted that the board has no authority to advertise for a building which the architects have advised against it for various reasons. The building committee met to discuss the problem before the board meeting and the only official action taken by the board was that of rejection of those bids for which they have no further concern.

ZIEGLER AT FETE FOR NOTED PASTOR

Aid Association Head Delivers
Address Before Missouri
Federation

G. D. Ziegler, president of the Aid Association for Lutherans, returned Monday from St. Louis, where he addressed the annual meeting of the Missouri federation of the association Sunday.

Mr. Ziegler arrived in St. Louis at a time when a notable celebration was in progress honoring Dr. C. C. Schmidt, one of the leading pastors of the Lutheran denomination. The large Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran church of that city was observing the fifty-fifth anniversary of his ordination and his eightieth birthday.

Dr. Schmidt began his ministry in 1855 at Immanuel Lutheran church, New York city, where Edward Rechin, who plays here Wednesday evening, now is organist. He preached at Ellyria, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind., and took the pulpit of the St. Louis church 35 years ago. He is still in the pastor despite his age, and is an active man.

The venerable pastor was educated at the Missouri synod theological seminary at St. Louis, which had 17 pupils then and now has 378. He has been the outstanding example of ministerial success to the students there. He has built up what is considered the finest parochial school in the world in connection with his church, with H. Bado as principal.

Mr. Bado also is president of the Missouri A. A. L. federation, before which Mr. Ziegler spoke. The Appleton man compared conditions now with those of 50 years ago and described the growth of the aid association. All of the officers nominated by the association's board of directors for reelection were endorsed by the Missouri federation. They are Harry Kahnert, St. Paul; C. J. Schulz, Saginaw, Mich.; and Otto C. Remner, Chicago, directors and E. R. Schneider, Green Bay, trustees.

Find Powder Puffs In Men's Clothing Left At Cleaners

Powder puffs in men's clothing and matches in women's. That's what dry cleaners find when they go through pockets of clothes left with them for cleaning. Some people go through clothes before sending them out, but a great many leave them at the cleaners without stopping to see if anything has been left in the garments.

Matches are the greater source of worry to cleaners. Pockets of all articles must be gone through very carefully so that no matches are left in them when they undergo the cleaning process. Friction or fumes might ignite the matches and little would be left of the cleaner or clothes.

Not long ago a man gave a suit to an employee in the Modern Dye and Cleaning works, did not notice a purse fall out of a pocket to the floor. The suit was taken into the back room, but before work had been started upon it another person in the store found the purse and it was identified as belonging to the owner of the suit.

Upon opening the billfold, it was found to contain $170 in bills. The man was notified at once and although he missed the purse, he had no idea where he had lost it.

In another instance at the same shop a man left a $2 bill in a pocket of a suit he wished cleaned. When he called for his suit, the manager gave him a quarter, telling him that the cleaning was already paid for. It took a lot of explanation to make the man understand he had left money in his clothes.

Rosaries, lodge pins, combs, mirrors, vanity cases, telegrams, letters, etc., in fact everything imaginable is found in clothing. Odd as it may seem, vanity cases and puffs are found mostly in men's clothes. Whether they are "swiped," loaned, or really belong to the men is hard to say, but nevertheless they are there. Pictures of girls are frequently found in inside coat pockets.

Most of the cleaners have a box in which they keep all articles of trivia and if not called for in the allowed time, are thrown away or given to children.

The Badger Panterium finds that people go through clothing rather carefully before they send it to be cleaned, but this shop also has its collection of pins, handkerchiefs and vestures. If the articles are identified with the suit they are returned to the pockets after the cleaning process has been gone through, but otherwise are kept until the owners call for them.

Novelty Cleaners and Dyers return all articles that are valued over a quarter to the garments in which they are found, but other things are kept in the "junk" box. The main worry here, as in other places, is matches.

"If we didn't look out for matches," the office girl said, "we'd all be blown to pieces when they come in contact with the naphtha, which is used in cleaning."

Very few complaints are received because articles left in clothing are returned. Most people realize that if something is lost when clothes are sent to the cleaners, it is their own fault and not that of the cleaner, and are usually grateful when articles are returned to them.

FORMER APPLETONIAN IN NEW OCCUPATION IN WEST

Lindsay Waters, formerly of Appleton, who had made his home in Texas for the last 20 years, has left his south and now is in the employ of one of the large fruit and vegetable associations of the west with headquarters at Salt Lake City, Utah where he resides. His son, Lindsay Waters, Jr., is employed by the same company and also works out of Salt Lake City.

The association operates in several western states and sell the greater part of the fruit and vegetable raised by farmers on a commission basis. The association provides the cars and looks after the marketing of the products. In this way the grower realizes a higher price than he would otherwise be able to get.

CHANGE ST. PAUL TRAIN SCHEDULE

Take Off Two Ashland Division
Trains—Better Time Under
New Plan

New arrangements for travel on the Chicago and Northwestern railway between Appleton and St. Paul will become effective on Nov. 15. It was announced on Wednesday by W. E. Basing, agent for the railway company.

Effective on that day, train No. 107, north bound from Appleton to St. Paul leaving Appleton Junction at 9:50 p. m., and train No. 108, southbound from St. Paul to Appleton arriving at Appleton Junction at 5:15 a. m., will be discontinued. On that same day the Northwestern will attach a sleeper on the train which leaves the Northern Wisconsin division depot at 8:15 p. m. and arrives in St. Paul at 8:20 the next morning. A sleeper also will be attached to the train which arrives at the Appleton depot for St. Paul at 7:17 a. m., thus providing a sleeper service between Appleton and the Twin Cities.

It is believed that better service for Appleton people having business in the Twin Cities will result from the new arrangement. The 8:15 train will arrive in St. Paul at 8:20 the following morning, more than an hour earlier than the train which now leaves at 9:50, thus giving more time in the cities. The sleeper from St. Paul to Appleton will arrive at 7:17 in the morning instead of 8:15, the present arrival time of the Ashland division train. The early arrival here made it necessary for travelers to leave their berths very early in the morning. Under the new arrangements they will be able to remain asleep until nearly 7 o'clock.

BADGER SPUD CROP FAR BELOW NORMAL

Little change in the Wisconsin potato crop prospects over conditions on Oct. 1. It is reported by the November crop summary of the State and Federal Reporting Service. The production for the state is estimated at twenty-six million bushels, which is 54 per cent of the state's crop last year.

The potato crop for the nation showed an increase in estimated production this month of fifteen million bushels over the October estimate, the report states. The estimate for the nation is 417 million bushels, which is 34 million bushels below last year, 79 million above 1921, and 14 million above 1920.

The average yield in Wisconsin is estimated by growers reporting to the crop department to be ninety-six bushels per acre. Yields in northern Wisconsin are above the average, it is stated, but in a group of ten central and western counties the yields are low due to drought and early frost. Last year the state produced forty-one million bushels.

It is believed that better service for Appleton people having business in the Twin Cities will result from the new arrangement. The 8:15 train will arrive in St. Paul at 8:20 the following morning, more than an hour earlier than the train which now leaves at 9:50, thus giving more time in the cities. NOT TOO LATE YET
Just as ignorance excuses no man in the eyes of the law, so ignorance of her penalties will not excuse mankind when nature collects her terrible toll because her rules have been violated. Under most conditions nature will reproduce herself, but man has cut the forests without providing for new growth and fire has ravaged and insects destroyed them. Man must fight the last two and at once give thought to replenishing idle acres else nature will pronounce a judgment from which there will be no appeal.
The time to act is now. A senate committee is investigating the forest situation. But back of this committee must be the understanding of the taxpayer, for he is the one who must put an O. K. on the suggestions of the committee. For example, the fact that the virgin forests of this country once covered eight hundred and twenty-two million acres while today only one-sixth of the vast wealth is left is news to most people. It is estimated that the merchantable timber still standing is something over two trillion board feet and one-half of this is in California, Washington and Oregon. This means heavy freight rates and long hauls to the centers of manufacturing. In the face of this our forests are making annual growth of less than one-fourth of total consumption. These things the average man does not know. Neither does he realize that the cost of forest products affects everything.
The most faithful friend of man is the forest. It provides him with materials to build homes and furnish fuel. It aids agriculture by preventing floods and it puts surplus rainfall in the soil for the use of farm crops. It supplies the foundation of all our railroads. The forest is the producer of fertile soil and it gives employment to millions of workmen. It is the best organized feature of the plant world. The forest is not a collection of different kinds of trees but it is a permanent asset which will yield large returns over long periods when properly managed. There should be a forest crop in this country every year just as the farmer provides for a corn and wheat crop.
Our forests have been recklessly squandered for generations. It is not too late to remedy the situation. The work has just been begun and in such campaigns of education as that under way by the Rock Island lines and the American Tree Association a great deal of good will be done. The people of this country must be introduced to trees. They must be brought to know the value of the individual tree on home plot or on street. There is hardly a situation in which trees will not grow. When the American people come to a realization of tree values they will have become a nation of tree planters. And when they have become a nation of tree planters they will demand reforestation projects that will put the millions of acres of idle land in this country to work.

institute, Chicago, and former head of the American Farm Bureau federation, in an address to the convention of the American Country Life association in St. Louis. He said further:
"Country life too often is colorless and tedious, and confines the farmer's family year in and year out to their immediate environment. I consider an annual vacation for the farmer as a business proposition. Successful agriculture is as much a matter of mental activity as of physical ability, and the brain work of farming is too little appreciated."
Farming is our biggest industry. Our bread, our meat, our vegetables, our fruits, our desserts, our drinks, our hats, our clothes, our shoes, are produced on the farm. The money spent for food-stuffs alone makes agriculture the greatest business. The farmer is more than a business man. He is a property-owner. The property which he owns is not only real estate, buildings and machinery, but living things, animals and plants which grow, are sold. He is both owner and manager of his properties and his industry.
The farmer who spends his evening and dawns roaming over the land or stalking through the sheds with a lantern gives too much time and labor to detail and drudgery. He undervalues, as Mr. Howard, says, the brain work of farming. It is not surprising that the farmer who wears out his health with physical labor pays too attentive an ear to trouble-propagandists, who exaggerate his woes, intensify his grudge, and agitate him with fake panaceas. The farmer has heeded too much the smooth talk of politicians, theorists and selfish advisers, who fatten financially on his grievances.
The farmer as a rule knows how to farm. He is master of the operating department of his industry. Besides this, he owes it to himself to become efficient in economics. This is, he must apply the law of supply and demand to his business, so that he may scientifically regulate his production and his marketing.

FREE TRADE OR PROTECTION IN ENGLAND
Mr. David Lloyd George has a way of asking questions when he seeks information. While he was in the United States it was rumored that he contemplated launching a trade-protection movement on his return to London, and thereupon the Baldwin administration proclaimed this platform as its own. On landing at Southampton, Mr. George declares for free trade and scores protection as "the mid-dewed straw of the last century with every grain of statesmanship beaten out of it."
England adopted free trade as the fundamental scheme of colonial expansion, in order to become the market place of the world. Inducements were held out to different countries in all quarters of the world to ship their raw materials to England, and, as a result, she rose to pre-eminence in manufacture and jobbing. At present there are 1,500,000 unemployed men and women in Great Britain, and no jobs are in sight. The government tried some time ago to remedy this situation by inducing citizens to emigrate to the colonies or commonwealths, but only 31,000 had left the mother-country up to forty days ago. Of this number 23,000 voyaged to Australia, 4,500 to New Zealand, and 3,800 to Canada.
The protection issue comes up at this time as a possible means of providing work for the unemployed. The theory of the Baldwin administration is to maintain free trade between Great Britain and the dominions but to raise a tariff wall against the rest of the world. The Labor party takes the same stand as does Lloyd George, who is the leader or one of the leaders of the Liberals. Further development of the British policy will be watched with keen interest in the United States.

NATIONAL HIGHWAYS
The statement of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that the federal government since 1917 has collected $589,612,021 in taxes upon automobiles and automobile accessories is a strong argument for completion of the trans-continental trunk line road program.
There is $9,000,000,000 tied up in motor car investments, and the sum paid by car owners in taxes should be received back in the form of good roads. Roads link America into a unified nation even more than the telephone.
Don't shoot your wife. Run her crazy. Get a doctor! That sounds like the telephone.
The leopard cannot change its spots and it seems as if some tabloids can't either.

THE FARMER AND THE LANTERN
"Should you make a survey, you will find that a large percentage of blue, discouraged farmers carry a lantern at night. Popularize the slogan, 'Junk the Lantern.'"
The foregoing statement was made by Mr. James R. Howards, of Clemons, Iowa, president of the National Transportation

THE POOR PORES
What are those things which people usually call pores and which so often appear enlarged, especially about the sides of the nose or over the cheeks? They are the orifices of the ducts or excretory tubes of the sebaceous and sweat glands. The sebaceous (oil) glands and the sweat glands usually discharge their excretions or secretions through a common opening in that same opening, as a rule, on skin covered with hair or down, as is the skin of the whole body excepting the soles and the palms, is the shaft of the hair. The secretion of the sweat and the sweat are poured into the well of the hair shaft; they work up along the hair shaft out upon the surface of the skin.
These openings from which the sweat, the sebum and the hair exude or emerge upon the surface are the pores, since nothing is absorbed through them. They do not open nor close under the influence of varying conditions of temperature or bodily activity. No one with a rudimentary knowledge of anatomy or physiology can for a moment entertain the absurd notion of "taking cold" because somebody carelessly neglected to close his pores before going out to the football game. Nobody has ever been able to prove that anything—air, water, food, or medicine—is absorbed through the unbroken skin.
Various medicinal substances are administered, and effectively, by application to the unbroken skin, but, in every such instance, so far as scientific observation goes, the medicine, if absorbed, is inhaled through the lungs, being volatilized by the warmth of the body and inhaled. Few food substances, if any, can be inhaled—not considering soup.
The orifices or openings of the ducts appear and really are dilated or enlarged when the sebum accumulates; this state of condition is known to physicians as seborrhea. LAST MOTHER OF ONEIDAS IS BURIED TODAY

Mrs. A. P. Cornelius Was One Of Most Influential Of Indian Tribe

Special to Post-Crescent
Seymour—The last mother of the Oneida Indian, Mrs. A. P. Cornelius, was buried at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The funeral services were held at 11 o'clock at the Episcopal church of which she was one of the founders.

Mrs. Cornelius, 74, died at 5 o'clock Monday morning at the home of her daughters, Mrs. O. J. Kallala and Miss Alice Cornelius at Seymour following illness with pneumonia. She is survived also by two sons, Chester P. Cornelius, an Oklahoma attorney, and Frank Ford Cornelius, also two grandchildren, Mildred and Cecelia Alice Cornelius.

Mrs. Cornelius, nee Gebela Bread was the youngest daughter of the late head chief, Daniel Bread, the grandson of Chief Skandagah of Revolutionary fame. As the last of her race of the days when the Six Nations were a real people enjoying their own freedom and possessing their own culture Mrs. Cornelius bore those marks of the Indian aristocracy to a degree not enjoyed by anyone else in the Oneida nation.

By her character and position she was known and beloved by the young and old as the last of her race of the Oneidas. The Six Nations knew her and counted on her help in the reorganization of the Confederate league. By her descent from the most powerful clan whose signature on the treaties was necessary to make them valid, she would have been the "condolence mother" in the installation of chiefs which ceremony is to be held in New York in the near future. This power she passed to the last of her race, daughter, Alice who also qualifies for the position.

In her marriage to Adam P. Cornelius of the Bear clan there were united the two most distinguished families of the Nation and these two led exemplary lives.

She with her sister and cousin started the fund that built the first Episcopal church at Oneida and as wife of a Methodist later on she helped raise the fund for the Methodist church.

CARS ARE DAMAGED IN TWO ACCIDENTS

Special to Post-Crescent

Dear Creek—A large Buick touring car driven by H. B. Williams, town of Dear Creek, collided with a Ford car at Dear Creek Corners Saturday evening. None of the occupants of either car was hurt but the cars were badly damaged. The identity of the Ford driver was not learned.

On Sunday evening a large car driven by men on a hunting trip was going south on highway 39 at high speed. Its driver saw a sedan driving east on highway 22 and to avoid striking it the large car turned out, struck it on its way but the large car was damaged, fenders bent and one door broken off. The accident happened at Dear Creek Corners where highway 22 crosses highway 39 and some buildings there shut off a good view of the road. The names of the persons in the accident were not learned.

The Walter St. John family has moved to Galloway where they will reside on a farm. St. John conducted a feed mill here for a number of years but sold his machinery to a man from Shawano, and decided to discontinue the business.

The Lawrence Thebo family has moved to the rooms in the St. W. Jepson home vacated by the St. John family.

A number of men from the village and vicinity attended the auction of the Stephen McGinty farm in the town of Dear Creek Saturday.

Mr. John Benotsch, 300 Taylor Street, Kaukauna, wanted to buy 15 full blooded leghorn pullets. Of course he did not know off hand just where he would secure them. But enlisting the aid of that great "Seeker of buyers or sellers," the want-ads of the Post-Crescent, he was able, in a short time to secure the chickens.

The cost of this small ad was only 96c. Surely a small expenditure for the results obtained. Personal effort would, undoubtedly, have consumed much time and money to secure the same results.

PUPILS ENTERTAIN CIVIC LEAGUE FOR GOOD BOOK WEEK

Famous Literary Characters Are Portrayed In Dramatized Stories

New London—The Civic Improvement league observed "good book week" at its regular meeting in the library clubhouse Monday evening. The first grade pupils from the Lincoln school gave selections from Robert Louis Stevenson in recognition of that poet's birthday anniversary. The second and third grade pupils presented the dramatization of stories. Children from the fifth and sixth grades were dressed to represent famous child characters in literature.

First prize for the best costume and characterization was awarded by the Civic league to Fred Cochrane who represented Oliver Twist and second prize to Miss Helen Abrams in the character of "Little Maggie." Other characters represented were "Evangeline," "Uncle Tom," and "The Raggedy Man."

The three Zerrner children, Earl, Forrest, and Venice rendered a piano trio. George Rosenreiter and his sister Olive played a violin and piano duet. Mrs. H. B. Crispy and Miss Melba Pelzer, public librarians, talked on the subject of "Good Books."

ENTERTAIN LEGION

The members of the Norris Spencer post of the American legion were guests of the Rotarians at a 7-o'clock banquet at Grand hotel Monday evening in observance of Armistice day. President E. N. Caley of the Rotary club presided and introduced the speaker of the evening, Karl Maritz of Wausau. Short talks also were given by G. H. Putnam and Dr. R. L. Fitzgerald. Capt. Henry J. Pettigrew of Appleton, under whose command the New London boys served, was a guest at the banquet and gave a brief address. Singing was directed by Milton Stanley of Shawano.

Miss Sadie McNulty of the university extension, Madison, conducted the fourth session of her sewing class at the home of Mrs. D. O. Blisset on Tuesday. The class will attend the county get-together meeting at Waupaca on Friday of this week.

PHYSICAL, MORAL SAFETY ASSURED BY PLAYGROUNDS

Recreation Association Secretary Tells Womens Club Of Playground Benefits

Men instinctively know how to work, but play must be taught them in their youth. Thus argued J. R. Barchelor, field secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, who addressed Appleton Womens club at its meeting in the Playhouse Tuesday evening on "Supervised Recreation in Parks and Playgrounds." Constructive play, said he, keeps the child off the streets, away from temptations and gambling places and builds them up physically and morally.

In presenting his subject Mr. Barchelor said that in 13 months 25,000 children were killed by traffic in cities, and many more were injured. Ninety-nine per cent of those who survive their injuries do not regain their former health. This proves that the child must be kept off the streets and demonstrates the need of supervised recreation parks, he said. Other figures show that 11 1/2 years of a person's life until he reaches the age of 21 is leisure time. This is the period in which the foundation of his life is built and care must be taken that this time is spent in the right way. Supervised playground activities solve this problem, Mr. Barchelor believes.

NEED LEADERSHIP

Time was when children could safely play games in the roads, but growth and invention have made this impossible because of the danger to human life. There must be some supervised place where young folks can be entertained, some morally clean place to attract them from the streets. Other cities have accomplished this through the use of public playgrounds.

Three things are necessary, Mr. Barchelor said, for a public recreation park—facilities, program and leadership. Of these three leadership is the most important, for without it, the grounds would become a nuisance and public menace.

Great sums, the speaker declared, are spent for extending juvenile courts but this money could be used to a greater advantage in cutting off the source of the evil. This was illustrated by the fact that 90 per cent of the child crimes committed in the United States are perpetrated in idle moments, because there is no place for children to go except where wrong going tempted them.

The argument is made that the place for moral training is in the home. This was answered by Mr. Barchelor's statement that no matter how a child is trained in his home life to become a clean and upright citizen, the contact with the outside world acts upon him. Wholesome play under capable leaders is more effective than rigid rules laid down at home, he declared.

WILL DEMAND PLAYGROUNDS

The speaker predicted that the time would come when new plans would not be added to cities unless a certain space had been set aside for public playgrounds. Where there is no municipal playground the schools might be used advantageously. In this connection Mr. Barchelor said that schools should not be constructed unless 150 to 200 square feet were allowed each child. It was said that in many instances pupils merely stand around at recess because they have no idea what to do. Games are not taught them and in many cases this play time is spent in waiting for the bell which will admit them to the next class.

It was brought out that Wisconsin has a law that makes it possible to levy a tax for recreation. Three cities in Wisconsin have already adopted the recreation plan—Oshkosh, Kenosha and Milwaukee. In one of these cities it is said that on Halloween night not a single arrest was made because programs had been planned on that night.

Mr. Barchelor concluded by saying that the municipality is responsible for the happiness of its people, and children who are not taught how to play properly, lack enthusiasm and vitality. He said supervised recreation is as necessary as pure water and fire protection, and without cities it cannot expect crime and immorality to cease.

Along with radio's popularity, comes the question of popular interest in its technical development. That, proof shows, is about as high as the new science itself. Just as every radio fan has won over others toward a greater interest in broadcasting reception, he himself has become a convert to the actual development of the science.

Thousands of fans, old and young, are daily scanning radio publications, if they're not seeking information from radio sales clerks, for ways to improve their receiving sets. Hookups are as popular as ever, and parts are being improved regularly.

By far the greatest interest in this branch of radio lies in the hook-up. At first it was the simple Cope circuit.

WINTER PREPARATIONS HALTED WHEN FARMER FINDS DANDELION BLOOM

A Grand Chute farmer does not know just when to believe. Having read all the predictions of an early, long and severe winter founded upon the extra thickness of fur animals, the early nut harvesting by squirrels, and various other signs of nature, he decided he had better have his horses fitted with "Never-Slip" shoes. On his way back from the blacksmith shop Monday he picked a dandelion. Never in his life, he says, has he picked dandelions and had his horses winter shod in the day. Now he is looking for the man who said winter is here.

CITY INDIFFERENT ON PEACE DAY, SAY WOMEN

Dissatisfaction with the manner in which Appleton observed Armistice day has been expressed by the Americanization committee of the Womens auxiliary of the American Legion. The women believe some arrangements should have been made by city officials for remembering the anniversary of the close of the World war. If no observance seemed appropriate on Sunday, they declare a public program could have been held either Saturday or Monday.

The people at large were lax in commemorating this noted day, as was shown by the lack of flags displayed throughout the city. The committee probably will be one those active next year in pushing preliminary plans for celebration of the day.

Then came the regenerative circuit, which brought out the name of Edward A. Armstrong as one of the greatest radio engineers of the country.

ALL FOR BETTER

But hardly had his fame reached the peak when other more complicated hook-ups were produced. There came the neutrodyne, considered among the most efficient hook-ups extant. Then the reflex and other arrangements of parts by which it was believed a listener could improve his receiving set.

Yet this is only the beginning of the technical development of radio. Engineers are still striving to eliminate interference, and for this they experiment with hook-ups and new parts with the hope of gaining their goal this way.

All their movements are followed zealously by the true radio fan. He is not so much interested in radio proper, as he is in the improvement of his own set. And any suggestion for improvement is eagerly snatched up and tested.

AMATEUR'S CHANCE

In this, the radio amateur is the leader. He is the one who is always tearing down and building up his set. And it is he who comes forth now and then with a new hook-up which he believes may revolutionize radio.

The Grimes reflex circuit, one of the famous hook-ups of today for which the inventor is said to have received half a million dollars, is the product of an amateur's brain. His experience is typical among young amateurs, any one of whom may come out one of these days with even a more effective hook-up.

This universal search for better hook-ups promises to maintain its popularity among the fans, at any rate until the ideal set is found. This ideal achievement, as engineers see it today, would be one that would work well under all conditions of weather and other disturbances, which would be so simple in its operation that any outsider could work it, and which would bring in distant as well as nearby stations at will.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then get fine and bladder disorders disappear.

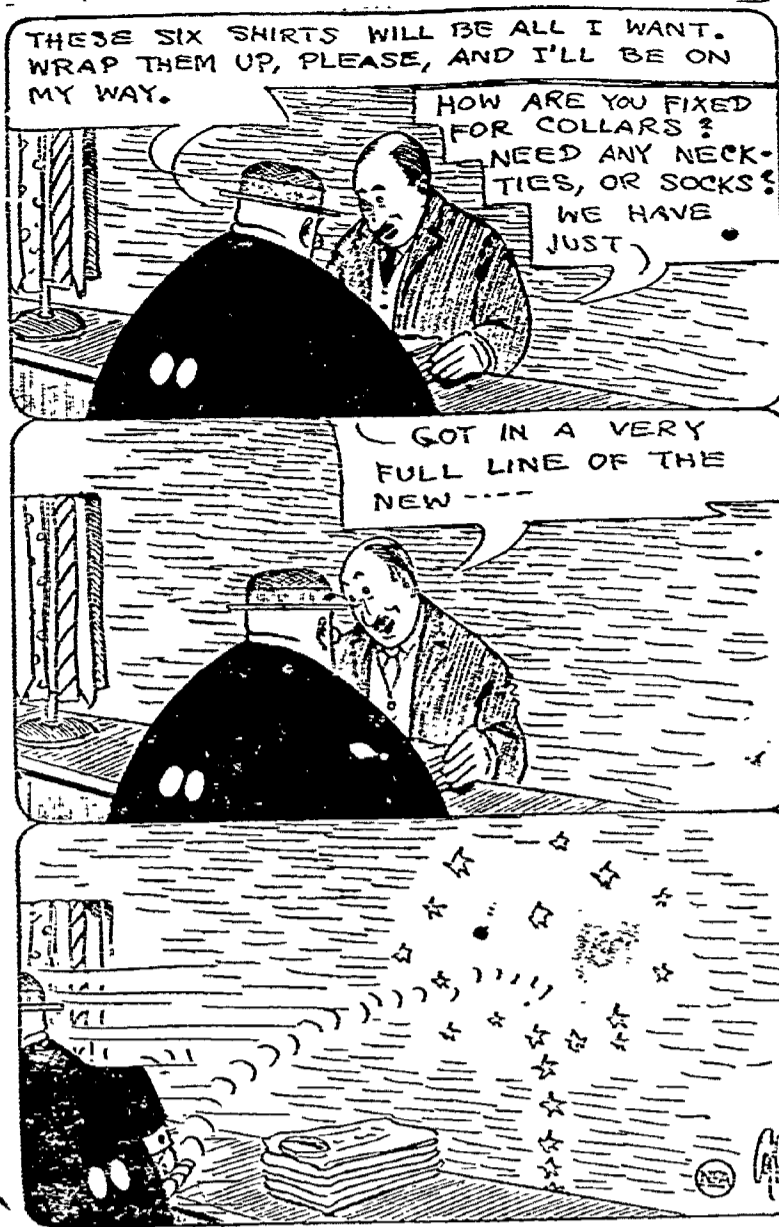

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink a lot of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

COUNTY TREASURER MUST HAVE CLERK'S ORDER TO PAY BILLS

Law Effective Jan. 1 Establishes New System Of Accounting

After Jan. 1, 1924, a new law affecting the office of the county clerk and county treasurer will be effective. After that date no money shall be disbursed from the county treasury except upon the written order of the county clerk after properly certified vouchers have been filed in his office.

County officials and employees, other than the county clerk, who prior to that time had been authorized to issue orders will cease to draw orders directly upon the county treasurer but will instead present properly certified vouchers or other satisfactory evidence to the county clerk who will draw orders upon the treasurer.

In the cases of county asylum, poor farm, sanatorium and highway disbursements, schedules of vouchers may be prepared and submitted to the county clerk. It will then devolve upon the clerk to issue separate orders to the various individuals for the several amounts due. In cases where court certificates shall have been issued, the original certificates will be deposited with the clerk and serve as his authority for issuing county orders upon the treasurer. For general county disbursements, the original

METHODISTS BUILD 23 HOUSES A WEEK

By Associated Press
Chicago — Twenty-three buildings a week are being erected wholly or in part by the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at a weekly expense of $33,112, according to figures compiled for the Committee on Conservation and Advance. Previously only 12,000 building projects have been put through in 50 years.

In rural and frontier mission fields, 2,550 pastors are being maintained wholly or in part by the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension.

each pastor serving from one to four communities on the "circuit-riding" basis. Schools for training these men are held each summer at 29 different Methodist colleges and institutes. Two hundred negro pastors also are on the pay-roll of the board. There are in addition 500 pastors and 550 specially trained Christian social workers in congested city centers of population, and the Gospel is preached in 13 languages by 935 home mission pastors.

These figures do not include self-supporting Methodist churches whose contributions to the benevolent enterprises of the church as a whole constitute a substantial part of the $100,000,000 Centenary fund pledged by Methodists the world over.

TWO INJURED HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS STILL IN HOSPITAL

Dorothy Ornstein Cut About Face And Herbert Wettengel Has Broken Ribs

BULLETIN
Confidence that Miss Dorothy Ornstein's eyesight will not be affected by injuries to her face was expressed by Dr. J. P. Lenfestey, DePere, Wednesday afternoon. It is probable, however, some scars will be left on her face. The condition of Herbert Wettengel was improving Thursday afternoon and Dr. Lenfestey says he will recover.

Miss Dorothy Ornstein, daughter of J. Ornstein, 552 North-st and Herbert Wettengel, son of Joseph A. Wettengel, 545 Cherry-st, high school students who were injured Tuesday morning when the car in which they and four other students were riding, turned over three miles from DePere still are in St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay. Miss Tvanette Steenis whose ankle was injured has been taken to her home, 900 Washington-st, and will be able to return to school next week. The other occupants of the car, Herbert Guenke, Nora Bast, and Bertha Greenspoon, were brought to Appleton Tuesday afternoon and are expected to return to high school on Thursday.

Miss Ornstein is badly cut about the face. Doctors have not been able to determine the extent of injuries to her eyes because they have not been able to remove the bandage from them. It is possible that there is no injury other than the usual swelling after a severe blow. The Wettengel boy had three fractured ribs, internal injuries which include a severe lung injury. The extent of his injuries were shown by X-Ray pictures, according to Dr. J. P. Lenfestey, who is attending the students.

Students who saw the accident say that when Miss Ornstein attempted to turn the corner at which the accident took place, the car began to skid on the slippery pavement and she jammed on the brakes and turned the wheel in such a way that the skid was accentuated. She then jumped on the brake and the car turned over, pinning the six students underneath. Miss Ornstein was extricated from the demolished car and hurried to the doctor's office in DePere from where she was removed to St. Vincent hospital. As each student was taken from the wreck, he was taken at once to the doctor's office.

All of the high school students in the democracy classes were enroute to the Green Bay reformatory in 20 cars when the accident occurred. Miss Ornstein's car was in the middle of the group. After the injured students were taken to the hospital, the others continued on their way to the reformatory. They returned to Appleton about 2 o'clock.

The Wettengel boy is a brother of O. E. Wettengel, not his son as was stated in Tuesday's Post-Crescent.

ROSE OPENS DEBATE ON VOLSTEAD LAW HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

Former Mayor Of Milwaukee Will Argue Making Law More Liberal

Nothing that ever has been done in the United States of America has created as much discussion as the Volstead law, which is the act enforcing the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution. Almost any group of men will veer to discussion of this much discussed law, to matter what else they have under consideration. Every party, every gathering, every group, sometime or other, will discuss the Volstead law.

With such an intense interest in the law, it is believed that Lawrence Memorial chapel will be filled to capacity next Sunday evening when David S. Rose of Milwaukee, one of the most fluent speakers in the middle west, argues for making the Volstead law more liberal. His address is the third number of the program for the People's forum. A week from Sunday A. E. Minahan of Green Bay, will present the case for maintaining the present Volstead law.

Mr. Rose, mayor of Milwaukee for several terms, is one of the best known men in Wisconsin. For years he was leader in Democratic politics and has been a candidate for governor. He spent several years in the east and abroad and is widely known as a lawyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harris, 980 Spring-st, leave Thursday to spend a week in Milwaukee with Mr. Harris's mother.

WOMEN MEET TO DETERMINE RED CROSS PROGRAM

Every Woman In Appleton Invited To City Hall Gathering Tonight

What the Red Cross will include in its home service program will be determined at a public meeting at the city hall at 7:30 Wednesday evening. Any one who has suggestions concerning the charitable and social service activities of the city is urged to be present at this meeting.

Appleton's roll call will start Saturday and will be carried on by a group of the younger women in the city, whom every effort is being made to interest in civic problems. Mrs. Gustave Keller is chairman of the roll call. This membership drive is necessary if Appleton is to keep its Red Cross charter.

Announcements of the roll call were made in the churches on Sunday and at the Peoples Forum. Merchants have been asked to display the roll call posters in their windows. The national roll call time is from Armistice day to Thanksgiving. A shorter time will be given to it in Appleton.

ASK CANADA'S AID FOR CONSERVATION OF NATIONAL PARKS

American Association Proposes International System Of Museums

By Associated Press
Washington—To benefit science and popular education during future generations, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the largest scientific body in the world, has proposed establishing an international system of museums of the original American wilderness. Its object is to preserve examples of the primitive in nature from the Arctic Ocean to the Gulf of Mexico, making a continental scientific laboratory and popular educational exhibit covering both Canada and the United States.

The basis for this international system already exists, the scientists believe in the national parks systems of the two nations. No political or administrative union of these is advocated, but an international policy of complete conservation from industrial uses, backed by perfected laws in both countries.

The association today issued the following from its headquarters in the Smithsonian Institution:

"Whereas, more than half a century ago, the American people, by Congress, approved by scientific and other societies and by the public generally, the National Parks of the United States have been completely conserved from industrial uses so as to constitute a system of National Museums of Native America, and

"Whereas, one of the national parks of Canada is similarly completely conserved, and

"Whereas, the combined National Parks Systems of both countries, covering geological, biological and geographical examples from the Alaskan Range, through the Canadian Rockies, to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, if preserved untouched will constitute a unique Continental Exposition of inestimable value to scientific and to the popular education of future generations; and

"Whereas, at the option of a single official of the government, several of the national parks in the United States are nevertheless open to mining and grazing, while the control of water power in future parks has recently been surrendered to the Water Power Commission; and all but one of the national parks in Canada are similarly open to certain economic or commercial uses; and

"Whereas, every interference with their natural conditions will destroy the usefulness of these areas to science and education; and

"Whereas, this generation can pass on to future generations no greater gift than these parks in their primitive condition. Therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the American Association for the Advancement of Science earnestly requests the people and the Congress of the United States and the people and the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada to secure such amendments of existing law and the enactment of such new laws as will give to all units in the international parks system complete conservation alike, and will safeguard them against every industrial use either under private or public control at least until careful study shall justify the elimination of any part from park classification."

The American Association for the Advancement of Science is international, its nearly 10,000 members representing both Canada and the United States. Dr. Charles D. Walcott, head of the Smithsonian Institution, was recently elected president, succeeding Dr. J. Playfair McMurich of the University of Toronto.

The two national park systems, which the association asks these nations to develop and administer together extend from Alaska nearly to the Gulf of Mexico, with one park unit on the Atlantic Coast and one in the Hawaiian Islands. The United States system contains 12 national parks and 25 national monuments. The Canadian system has seven national parks so far, the most celebrated of which is the one containing famous Lake Louise.

The mountain ranges illustrated in the international museum system include the Alaskan Range, the Canadian Rockies, the Spikik Range, the Cascade, the Sierra, and the American Rockies.

The hoped-for creation of a representative national park in the Appalachians, and the future development of the Canadian system to include, perhaps, Arctic Hudson Bay and other examples of the land forms, giant trees, primeval forests, and wild life of the great northern wilderness, will eventually complete a North American museum whose popularity as well as scientific value to posterity is reckoned as incalculable.

NEW DEVICE SHOWS OCEAN BED CONTOUR

Depth Measured By Sound Waves In New Sounding Method

By Associated Press
San Francisco—The precise contour of the Pacific continental shelf from San Francisco Bay to Pohna, Pacific Mexico revealed here recently in the publication by the Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department of a bathymetric chart, shows the floor of the ocean in a detailed way which will enable mariners hereafter to determine the position of their craft when landmarks are obstructed from view by climatic conditions.

The information is based on a recent cruise made by the destroyers Hull and Clegg, employing the recently invented Sonic finder.

The Sonic finder, a device which determines the depth of the ocean by recording the time required for the sound to reach the bottom and reflect back to the ship, takes a 2,000-foot sounding in less than a minute, supplanting a method which required six hours.

Originally undertaken at the request of the Carnegie Institution to aid in finding earthquake faults in the Pacific Ocean, the results obtained by the charting cruises far exceeded the original purpose, according to Lieutenant Layman A. Swenson, of the Navy Department.

Geologists may employ the chart to trace the extension of oil fields, situated on the southern California coast, to submerged prominences in the same vicinity of shore, it is said.

Elaborating the possibilities of such a chart, Lieutenant Swenson said it would enable anthropologists to trace links between continents in order to reach a determination of the manner in which animals migrated to countries which are now separated by oceans.

With the chart as a basis, mariners approaching the California coast could direct their craft, if equipped with the Sonic finder, to any harbor by means of deductions from the finder interpreted by the chart, navy officers said.

The expedition furnished revelations regarding the floor of the ocean off the Pacific coast, which show an egg-shaped, submerged prominence on the bed of the Pacific Ocean as a forty-three miles square of the Galapagos Islands, off the Golden Gate entrance of San Francisco Bay.

The chart also shows that if San Francisco Bay and the Pacific Ocean were pumped down 100 fathoms (600 feet), the coast line would be removed thirty miles from the Golden Gate straits and connect with the Farallones.

Off the coast of southern California, the ocean is spotted with depressions and contours resembling a land condition of mountains and lakes. This condition obtains in a line with the oil fields off the coast of Santa Barbara county.

SOUTH SEA FLAPPER HAS PRAYER BOOK AS HER TEXT NOW

Northern Flapper Is Wild One Now, Not Former Grass Skirt Girl

New York—Another South Sea bubble has burst. Flappers of those langorous isles are not as wicked as our own.

That's what Mrs. Rollo Beck says. She's the wife of the famous bird naturalist and has just come back with her husband from three years in the South Seas.

"The American flapper doesn't need a model any more," she says. "While she has been experimenting in wickedness and seeing how many trembles she could put into her shoulder blades, her Malay cousin's been getting religion."

Here, according to Mrs. Beck, is the way the flapper puts in her time in Papeete, capital of Tahiti, and erstwhile fashion center for the grass skirt.

She says grace before each meal.

On Sundays she goes to church, three times maybe.

On week days she works in the fields. Her mother doesn't have to bother to call her twice in the mornings, and if her father happens to be in the garden truck business she may stay up all night to get the vegetables to market.

On holidays she and her girl friends get together and have musical contests. And they sing good old-fashioned hymns and lovely native songs about the flowers and humming birds.

And when she wants to dress up in her very neatest she puts on a cotton Mother Hubbard, somewhat looser in the back and setting well up around the neck in front, with nice long sleeves.

"In fact," says Mrs. Beck, "if you except an occasional cigar or perhaps a little innocent game of Twenty-one or a nip now and then on a coconut hip flask, the South Sea flapper is 'way behind her northern cousin."

"She doesn't get drunk, she's polite to strangers and she's modest. The native dances for which she was formerly censured are fast disappearing. She lets the men do the dancing now."

"If she gets married she's industrious and sober and she tries to please her husband."

"If the northern flapper wants to imitate her now she'll have to do it with a prayer book."

Edward Lieske has purchased the Antea Dorn house and barn in Greenville and moved them to his farm near Greenville. Mr. Dorn has removed to Washington.

DR. ELLIOTT WINS THANKS OF GREECE

By Associated Press
Paris—Gratitude by the Greeks for the big, philanthropic things the American people are doing for that refugee-ridden country continues to find earnest expression.

Every American who comes to Paris from Athens speaks of the modest devotion of the American relief workers there, still engaged in grappling with the huge problem which resulted from the dumping on the Grecian shores of over a million moneyless, homeless and homeless refugees from Turkey.

And especially do they dwell upon the extraordinary achievement of an American woman physician, Dr. Mabel E. Elliott of New York, who has, working quite alone, organized the housing and feeding of ten thousand Greek men, women and children on a small island on the Aegean Sea.

They say that this demure, frail looking American crusader seems endowed with almost superhuman powers of endurance. She tells from early morn until late at night, nourishing the hungry, administering to the sick, and organizing good sanitary conditions. The Grecian people hold her in the highest esteem.

A recent number of the newspaper, L'Echo d'Orient, published at Athens, contains a glowing tribute to the American people for what they have done for suffering Greece.

"Obedience to the economic law that riches should circulate the American people do not forget," says the article, "that to find happiness one must have as much heart as gold. Uncountable multitudes already owe Americans their life, and across the centuries Christian history will record this fact in profound admiration."

ASK STATE TO MEND LEWIS TOMBSTONE

By Associated Press
Hohenwald, Tenn.—Several miles from this city, in a lonely spot in the woods, off the traveled highway, lies the body of Meriweather Lewis, notable historical character of the early days of Tennessee, whose chief fame is due to the fact that he participated in the Lewis and Clark expedition.

A monument erected over the grave by the State of Tennessee, bears the following inscription:

"Meriweather Lewis, born near Charlottesville, Va., August 18, 1774. Died October 11, 1809, age 35 years. An officer of the regular army, private secretary to President Jefferson, commander of the expedition to Oregon 1803-1806, governor of the territory of Louisiana. His melancholy death occurred where this monument now stands and under which rests his mortal remains."

Historians believe that Lewis was killed by robbers.

Surrounding the monument are the remains of an iron fence, for which the Tennessee legislature appropriated $500 in 1848. Local tradition says that during the war between the states, soldiers tore away some of the pickets for the purpose of manufacturing horse shoe nails.

The Tennessee Historical Commission plans to ask the legislature now in session at Nashville to appropriate $1,000 for repair, preservation and fencing of the Lewis monument. It has also been suggested that the body be removed to Hohenwald and a suitable monument erected.

SHANNON ELECTED PRESIDENT OF FOX VALLEY APIARISTS

University Of Wisconsin Experts Are Speakers Here

A. J. Shannon of Appleton was elected president of Fox River Valley Beekeepers association at a meeting in the city hall Tuesday afternoon. Other officers elected were Gustavus Gust of Kaukauna, vice president; William Jacobson of Kaukauna, secretary; George Breiterfeldt of Appleton, treasurer; and Edward Hassner, Jr., of Appleton, assistant secretary. About 20 beekeepers were present.

Favorable action was taken relative to rendering assistance in financing a honey booth at the Wisconsin Products exposition at Milwaukee the first week in December. It was decided to observe honey week, Nov. 19 through the grocery stores and arrangements were made for newspaper advertising calling attention to the week.

The meeting opened with a short session in the morning and lasted throughout the afternoon. L. P. Whitehead, extension bee specialist of the University of Wisconsin, and D. C. Adams of the state department of agriculture, gave talks in the morning, and afternoon. As the morning session the former discussed the advertising of honey at county fairs, and the latter told of conditions in Outagamie relative to foul brood.

LITTLE DISEASE HERE
The speaker said Outagamie was more nearly free from the disease than at least three of the counties bordering it. The state has been conducting a cleanup of the disease for the last two years and expects to have it eliminated in another year or two.

In the afternoon Mr. Whitehead discussed the wintering of bees and said the annual loss was about 12 per cent. Thousands of colonies die every winter. "Where we ought to have a loss of 2 or 3 per cent, we have a loss of more than 12 per cent. Occasional beekeepers in the state are wintering bees at very small loss, while others have a loss of from 30 to 40 per cent."

NEED YOUNG BEES
Mr. Whitehead said a great deal of the loss is due to not having the right kind of colonies to put in the winter quarters. The most desirable colonies are those strong in young bees.

"Most of the beekeepers," said the speaker, "are requesting their colonies each year. There are many who figure that every other year is often enough. The best time to request is in July."

"Many bees starve to death, most of them in August. I have seen them coming out of their hives in a starved condition. Let us consider another point. When we think of protection from the cold. There are other things just as important, for instance, the quality of stores. The quality of stores vary a great deal. White or Alaska clover are considered the best stores on which to winter bees."

In the afternoon Mr. Adams gave a talk on "Honey Marketing Conditions in Wisconsin."

"The conditions are not bad," he said, "and really are improving. During the year a great deal of the cream of Wisconsin honey and some of the later was usually mixed with it in order to sell it. It sold for less on the market."

Committee Will Help Farmers, City Folks At Dinner Get Acquainted

An acquaintance committee consisting of men and women will be on duty at the chamber of commerce forum dinner for the farmers of the county Tuesday evening, Nov. 20 in Eagle hall. The committee is to meet Thursday afternoon to work out an acquaintance plan so the business men and women and the farmers and their wives may know each other. Appleton Women's club is cooperating with the committee.

Large numbers of invitations have been mailed out to farmers urging them to attend the dinner which will be complimentary to the rural residents. For fear all might not receive the request to attend the dinner Secretary Hugh G. Corbett extends the invitation publicly through the newspaper also, asking farmers to take phone by Saturday to indicate how many members of their families will be present.

Reservation cards accompany the mailed announcements, and these are to be returned by Saturday if possible so the number of plates may be determined. NORMA TALMADGE ATTACKED BY WOLF

One of the very thrilling scenes in "Ashes of Vengeance," Joseph M. Schenck's superb production of this celebrated historical novel, starring Norma Talmadge and now being presented at the Elite Theatre, is an attack of Norma Talmadge and little Jeanne Carpenter by a wolf—an attack which, at that, it falls to the lot of Conway Tearle to conquer this beast, a feat which he accomplished by casting a cloak over the wolf's head, then strangling it.

"Ashes of Vengeance" is a romance of France in the days of Charles IX, released by First National. It was directed by Frank Lloyd. The production takes rank with the masterpieces of the screen. Not less than twenty distinguished players in addition to those mentioned have principal roles—Wallace Beery, Courtenay Foote, Josephine Crowell, Betty Francisco, Claire McDowell, Andre de Berenger, Murdock MacQuarrie, Boyd Irwin, Carmen Phillips, Winter Hall, William Clifford, Hector V. Sarno, Earl Schenck, James Conley, Lucy McAlister, Kenneth Gibson, Howard Truesdell, Frank Leigh and little Jeanne Carpenter.

Forty-eight massive sets, including one 330 feet long, reproducing the Louvre Palace ballroom, and another showing a whole quarter of the Paris of 1572, were built for the production. Thousands of actors on horseback and afoot, dressed in the varied costumes of the period, take part in the ensemble scenes.

"DOUG" STAGES HIS GREATEST FIST FIGHT

A real fight in which the only weapons used are bare knuckles, adds to the many thrills included in "The Mollycoddle," the United Artists Corporation production offered by Douglas Fairbanks, which will be shown at the New Bijou today and Thursday.

During his long career as a screen star Douglas Fairbanks has had many "battles" of a more or less spectacular nature. In some cases he has had just the "villain" to handle and in others he has even gone so far as to "beat up" an entire gang. Without exception all previous fights indulged in by the athletic star have been rehearsed, but not so with the fight in "The Mollycoddle."

"It was the toughest fight I have ever had," smiled the star after the scene was filmed. "It was so, too," countered Wallace Beery, who was Doug's opponent and likewise the player who shoulders the thankless burden of "villain" in the picture.

Tremendous "sets" add to the numerous features of "The Mollycoddle" and it was because of the great amount of construction work that was required that this production totaled up to several hundred thousand dollars more in cost than any previous output from the Fairbanks studios.

Among the more noticeable of the "sets" in this picture is an exact reproduction of Monte Carlo and the historic and famous Casino. The background of the world's idle rich.

The reproduction of Monte Carlo is only one instance of what may be expected of an elaborate as well as spectacular picture in "The Mollycoddle." Realism in every department of the production has been the keynote, and those who have seen advance screen-

ROAD COMMITTEE FIXES $192,405 AS 1924 BUDGET

County Board Will Be Asked To Approropriate Big Sum For Highways

The tentative budget as adopted by the county-state road and bridge committee for recommendation to the county board of supervisors at its meeting next week has been fixed at $192,405.13. That figure was agreed upon by the highway committee after an all day session in the four-hour Monday.

The amount tentatively fixed is about $10,000 more than that levied by the board last year and represents the limit of the 2 mill tax on the county's assessed valuation as permitted by law. The valuation placed upon this county for the state tax year is $96,257,000. The county's own assessment has not yet been made public. In addition to the $192,405 that the county probably will spend on roads next year, it will have available $18,521.37.

A petition from Kaukauna and Freedom asking for about 7 additional miles of patrolled road was adopted and recommended to the county board. The proposed appropriation of county aid for the paving of Cherry-st road was again discussed and referred with our recommendation to the county board.

resses in the school. A census taken for the class proves it. The number who have felt the lightning of their ringlets as the scissors went "snip, snip" is 32. Those who know nothing of the comfort and joy of modern freedom from rats and ear-puffs are 230. There are 562 girls in the school.

It is hard to estimate just how many of the girls in the high school class have never had their hair cut. Some of them have worn it bobbed in their "childhood" days and some are just in the stage of "doin' it up" again. The boys who took the census were not expert enough in the matter of hairdressing, they said, to determine whether the seemingly long hair was "extra" or grown on, but all they really wanted to know was how many bobbed heads there are.

Indian Tries To Use Street As His Boudoir

Detective Matthew McGinnis and Patrolman Herbert Kamp had little sympathy for John Big Wolf, known as an Indian, when he was caught in an enterprising situation last Sunday.

It was the second time John was caught in the same fix.

It was in fact, due to Chief Big Wolf's state of inebriety that he was found very much as disheveled on Pearl-st at midnight Monday. Unencumbered with that form of garment destined as connecting link for suspenders and too drunk to attire himself in a barrel, the red man caused something of a sensation on Pearl-st Monday evening.

The officers removed him quickly from the offending eyes of the public, but a night's rest in jail was hardly sufficient to enable him into face the

Good-Will

SHAKESPEARE appraised good-will at its true value when he said:

"Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something, nothing; 'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands; But he that filches from me my good name Robs me of that which neither enriches him And makes me poor indeed."

It is good-will that has made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) great.

Good-will is prized more highly by the Management of this Company than any other factor or element in the business.

Good-will is born of confidence. Confidence is the inevitable result of ability to serve—proved over long periods of time.

In short, good-will is the child of Service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) long ago became convinced that when service is rendered to the public, profits follow—as surely as night follows day.

The more whole-souled, the more energetic, the more enthusiastic the service, the greater the profits.

Service is interpreted in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to mean something more than the perfunctory delivery of petroleum products.

It means going to any lengths to get Standard Oil products to the consumer, wherever he may be, in such quantities as may be desired—whether in thousand gallon lots or five gallon lots.

It means the highest standard of quality in manufacture and the maintenance of this standard at all times.

It means exerting every atom of facilities at the Company's command, to discover and develop new products from crude petroleum that will add to the comforts and refinements of life.

It is this enthusiastic spirit of intensive service—plus the every day practice of the principles of equity, fairness and justice—manifest at every point of contact between the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the public—that has gained for this Company the good-will, respect and esteem of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

"I know it's your job," he said. "You took it with your eyes open. It's up to you to see it through."

"Must I go on forever paying for one mistake?"

"Somebody must pay for our mistakes. That it was wrong to make a bargain doesn't make it right to break the bargain when we get tired of it."

"I don't know what to do," she moaned.

"Play the game," Gilchrist said. "Go back to that poor mistaken man lying across the foot of your bed—his mind going and his health gone. Bear your punishment and help him to bear his. That's your duty."

"Duty, duty, duty," she echoed mechanically. "What about happiness?"

"There is no other happiness," he returned. "Oh, don't you see, my dear, I've been your greatest mistake! You're always crying—you and the world—I want to be happy. Happiness is service. Happiness is clean living and clean thinking and self-forgetfulness and self-respect."

"And love?" she asked like a child.

"Love isn't all," he said. "Not the love you mean. You said 'Take me, and we'll both forget.' Could we have forgotten promises, unkept, faith disappointed, aspirations unrealized? He smiled tenderly. 'No, my dear, love isn't all, nor even happiness. There's something bigger, and better, and more important, and that something is—duty.'"

"The world doesn't think that," she said doubtfully.

"That's what's wrong with the world."

"You want me to go back?" She was clam now—very clam. "I want you to be right," he said. She paused undecidedly. Then she flung her head back and looked at him.

"Well then—" she said. "I'm going through. I'm going back and play the game—with you in my heart always. You don't forbid that, do you?"

"You are in mine always," he told her.

"And this time—goodbye!" She looked at him wisely. "Somewhere—in this world or out of it—there must be a moment—and a place—to retrieve mistakes. Good night."

He opened the door for her and held out his hand.

"Good night," she said. "Good night," he added.

"Thank you," she looked back at him.

"Thank you," he said.

CHAPTER XX
A PITIFUL CONFESSION

Wearied by the sheer effort of re-narration, Gilchrist sank into a chair. There was no smile on his face now. There was agony written in his fine lines. Save for his eyes, there was something of desolation there. The eyes, though, still held the spark of a fire that seemed to have burned itself out in the rest of him.

Mary Margaret found him huddled there, his face in his hands, motionless.

"Ain't you well, Mr. Gilchrist?" she asked, alarmed.

"Just tired," he said, not moving. "Maybe you ain't believin' hard enough," she said naively. He looked up now. It was what he had needed. He smiled at her and straightened. "It's most time for the meeting," she added.

Grubby came back now with a tray loaded high with sandwiches. In his trail came several others, for the meeting. There was Mrs. Mulligan, swaying a bit with liquor and glad to find a warm place to enjoy her sambober state. There were Mr. and Mrs. Henchley, he a middle-aged locksmith, not without reserve, and she towering above him formidable.

"Good evening, Mrs. Mulligan," said Mary Margaret pleasantly. "It is not," the red-faced woman retorted.

The others held the evening in better repute, however, and returned Mary Margaret's greeting with good grace, and that of Gilchrist, too.

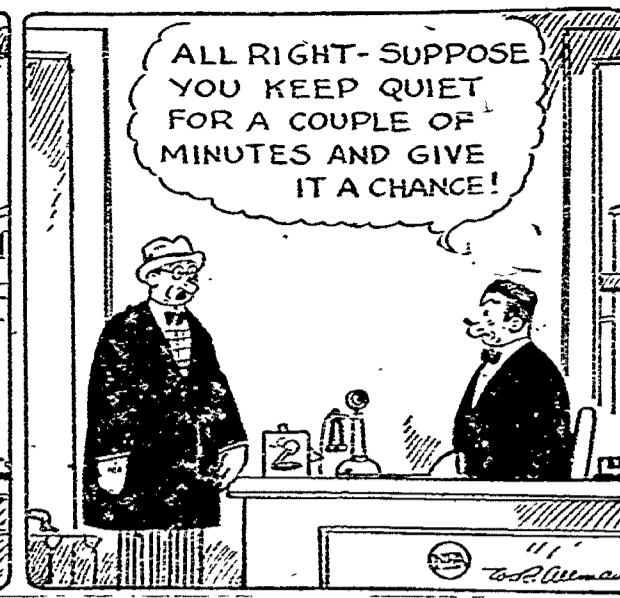

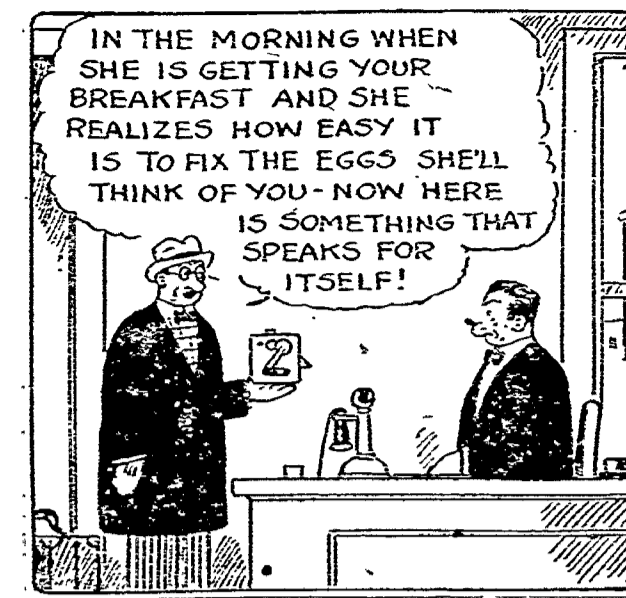

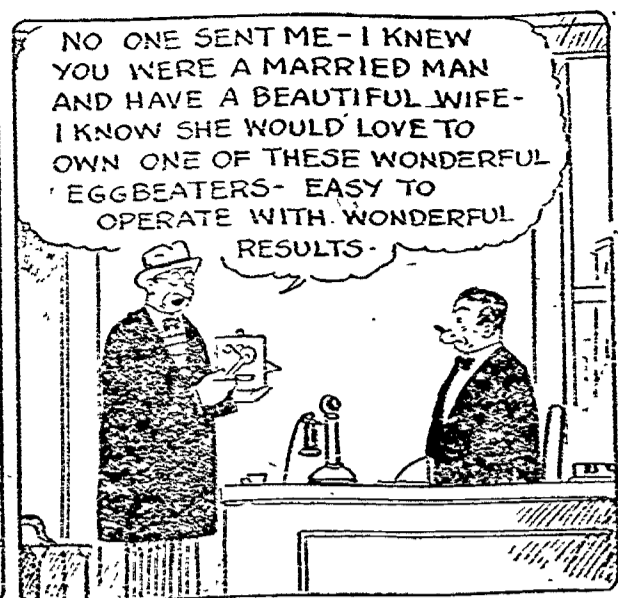

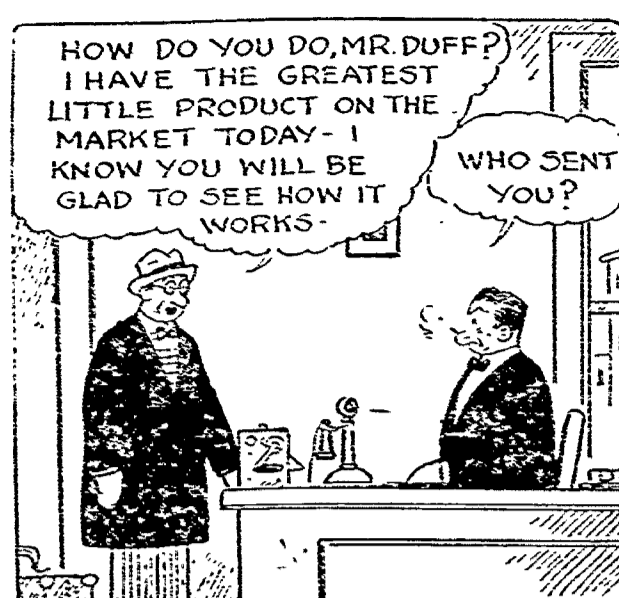

"I guess we're early," said Mr. Henchley to Daniel.

"Text," followed up his wife. "I wanted to speak to you—about Mr. Henchley's pants."

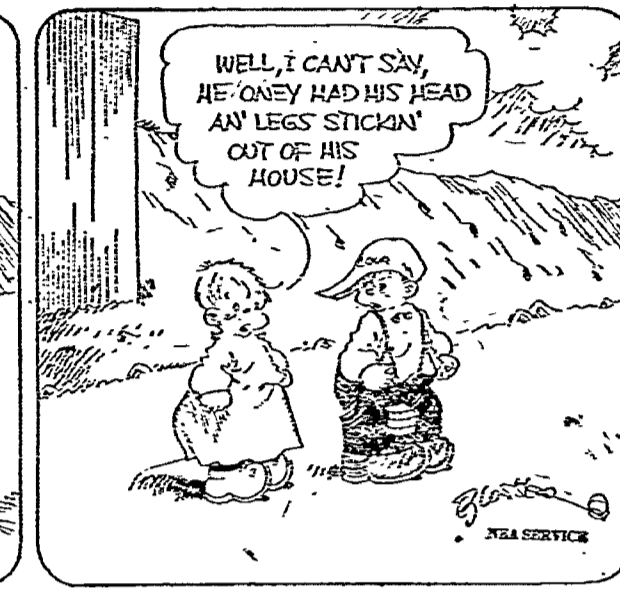

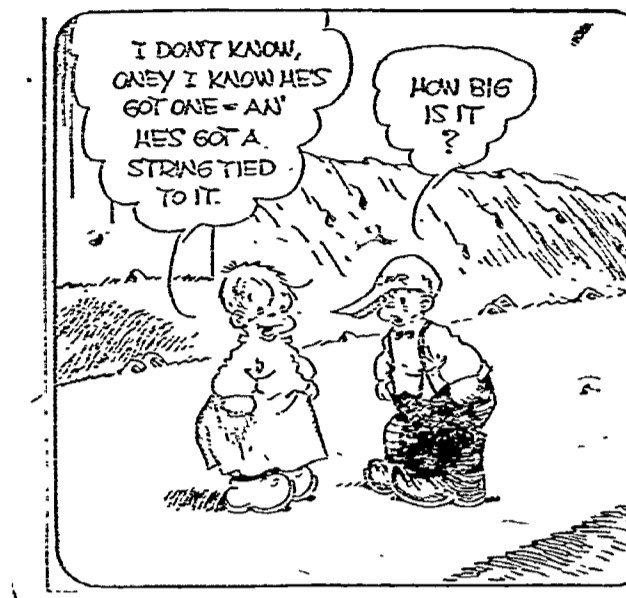

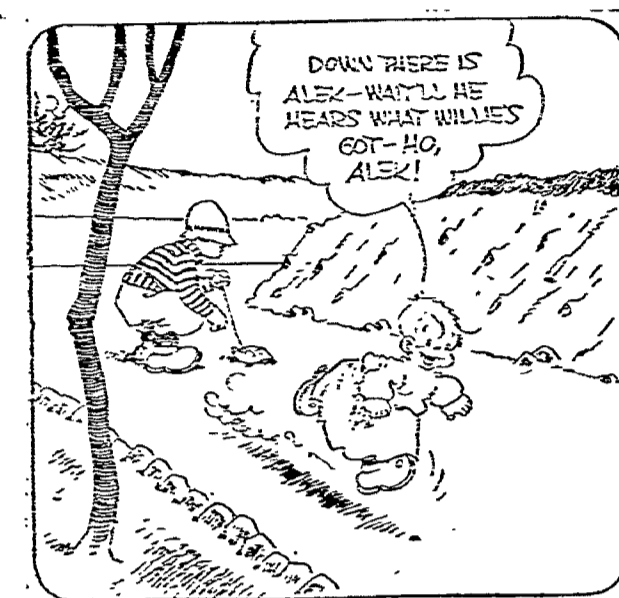

"Mr. Henchley's what?" asked Daniel curiously.

"Pants," reiterated Mrs. Henchley.

Baldheads Herald Dawn Of Culture Renaissance In United States Says Mme. Galli-Curci

Indianapolis — Pity not, nor scorn the much maligned gentry constructing first-nighters in the bald-headed row.

For in the prophetic words of Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, appearing in concert tour here, these sometimes frowned-upon individuals are nothing less than "new type artists trying to express themselves."

Attended by Homer Samuels, her accompanist-husband, the famous diva, in no uncertain terms and with many emphatic shrugs of her vivid shoulders, let it be known that a renaissance of culture and art has started to dawn upon America.

Our business men, she says, have been vilified by truthless European painters.

MALIGNED INDEED!

They are not the phlegmatic creatures so commonly imagined abroad. Indeed not! They are but artists bestirring themselves.

"Here in America," she said, "is floating the four compass points, 'you have industrial imagination.' 'Look over this city at its myriad chimneys dedicated to Yankee thought and progress.'"

"What do they typify, if not symbols of romance ingenuity born of vision?"

"And beyond the horizon, over millions of cultivated acres, the same sight greets the eyes."

"I tell you it is beautiful! A race capable of such, is artistic to its very core."

"Reveries of so powerful a conquest had best hold their silly tongue."

RENAISSANCE COMING

"For out of America is coming a renaissance of art and culture, such as the world never before has had the good fortune to enjoy."

"Within our gates right now is the cream of Europe's estheticism."

"And when that golden influx mingles with America's imagination and creative genius, the melting pot shall disgorge a super race of intellectuals, who will make the world a beautiful place in which to live."

During this unfeigned defense of her adopted land, the coloratura's voice had reached an excited pitch.

But when Galli-Curci finished the tone again descended to its normal and lovely softness. And she smiled a most disarming pleasure.

NO FILLSOME PRAISE

Of America she never tires of talking. But her praise is never fulsome.

Mme. Galli-Curci, above everything else, is sincere.

MME. AMELITTA GALLI-CURCI

"Men like Henry Ford and Edison mirror the great possibilities of this country," she says.

"They have imagination. And imagination is the mother of art."

"That is why it makes me angry to hear the ignorant in other lands speak of America's industrial kings and business leaders in the light of dummy little mannikins.

"There is nothing cold and calculating about building giant enterprises. Nor is there a lack of artistic appreciation manifested in designers of the kind who could cause so grand a temple, as the Pennsylvania Station in New York, to grow from brick and steel."

Women Too Attentive To Detail To Visualize Big Things In Business

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—"Women are not men's equals—in business."

"But give the ladies a chance. They have permitted their capacity for detail to blind them to the big things. Give them time and then see what happens."

Miss Ann E. Rae is speaking. Speaking with authority, too.

She is president of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations, an organization credited with having built 1,000,000 homes; president of the Niagara Falls Permanent Savings and Loan Association, an $8,000,000 corporation; former president of the New York State League of Savings and Loan Associations; director of the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce; director and former vice president of the Land Bank of the State of New York; and many other things and corporations.

With all this train of masculine titles, Miss Rae is, of all things, womanly. Why, she even refuses to divulge her age.

WORKS WITH MEN

"I am just a plain business woman," she explains. "I have never worked for woman suffrage because I didn't have time. But I think they have a right to vote. I like to work with men. They are fine at business. They haven't all the brains in the world, neither have women. My keynote has been cooperation."

Miss Rae is far from being a homebody. How could she be when she was working 14 hours a day at her desk and making addresses away from it? Despite this fact, she has done more for the great American home, perhaps, than any other woman or man, in this home world.

In fact, homes are her hobby. She has completed financial arrangements that made possible the building of enough homes to make a fair-sized town.

"Homes are very near and dear to women," she explains.

"You are in close touch with so many homes; do you find it true that we are developing a nation of delicate housewives living in two-by-four apartments?" she was asked.

Miss Rae smiled her blondest smile. "Of course not," she said. "Homes are changing, sure enough, but mostly for the better. The modern girl—those rouged cheeks, bobbed hair and abbreviated skirts—care just as much for home as did their hoop-skirted grandmothers. Women can't help loving a home; it's in their nature."

"Love is apt to stay in a cottage where the husband is also the landlord and his wife is the landlady."

Adventures Of The Twins

Mister Daffy Dilly's Manners

Mister Daffy Dilly's Pee Wee was a guide.

He wore suits with wide stripes sometimes, suits with big dots other times and suits like checkerboards in between times.

He wore eye-glasses and carried a cane and looked quite as gorgeous as King Snookums himself, although he didn't wear a crown on his head, but a high, silk hat instead.

And I am sorry to say that some of the other Pee Wee Landers made fun of him behind his back—the boys most of all. Winky Wank and Davy Dumpy and Dinky Doodle and Tiny Mite and George Porgie and the whole crowd behaved something awful whenever he was around.

They should have been ashamed of themselves, for although Mister Daffy Dilly was a bit odd about his clothes he had a heart as big as a watermelon almost and liked everybody. And his manners were simply fine.

One day there was a ball game in Pee Wee Land. And everybody was there to see how it would come out.

Daffy Dilly was there, too, right in the front row.

First thing you know, the ball came along and knocked Mister Daffy's hat off. But he acted as if he didn't care a bit and picked it up all mashed and everything and put it on again.

"That's all right," he said pleasantly. "I don't mind."

Pretty soon the ball came along and knocked his cane out of his hand.

"That's all right," he declared, picking it up as nice as pie.

Oven Must Be Right For Cake

By Helen Harrington Downing

During a recent visit to a food sale, it seemed that everyone was buying cakes. There were all kinds—large cakes and small cakes—loaf cakes and layer cakes, delicious and fine in texture. In fact, many of them were perfect, yet there were several that had either bulged or raised more on one side than on the other. This latter fact brought forth queries from two or three of the ladies as to the reason. One of the women in charge of the cake booth endeavored to explain. I was interested in hearing her give these reasons.

"It might be the uneven temperature of the oven in which the cakes were baked—the manner in which the batter was put in the pans, or again, poor quality and non-uniformity of the materials used, and you know, in this, baking powder plays an important part."

Baking powder should be thoroughly sifted together with the flour two or three times, at least, before it is combined with the other ingredients. The oven should not be too hot, neither should the temperature be too low, in fact a moderate or medium oven is safest and best, with a medium acting baking powder, that is one that requires a moderate oven. Then, if the batter is spread evenly in the cake tins, the cake will be of uniform thickness throughout when it is baked.

Oven temperature is an important consideration. It should always be even and at the proper degree for each kind of food to be baked. A standard oven thermometer is inexpensive—a reliable one does not cost over fifty or sixty cents and should be found in every kitchen together with a baking chart giving the correct temperatures required for various foods.

These kitchen aids will save the young, as well as the experienced housewife, many a failure and much waste of good material. If, instead of guessing at the temperature of the oven in which she takes her cakes, cookies, biscuits, etc., she actually follows an accurate time and temperature chart. One cannot always guess the correct oven temperature when baking by simply holding the hand in the oven.

apologize to poor Mister Daffy for being so mean."

And so they did, all of them, and they were never mean again.

But it taught Mister Daffy Dilly a lesson, too! He dressed much more sensibly after that.

NUTS

When putting up the winter stock of foods why not include a supply of native nuts?

Nuts are a real food, furnishing protein and fuel calories at a comparatively low cost. They are concentrated food and require some thought in combining with other foods to make a well balanced meal.

Too often nuts are served with no thought of their food value and are added to a meal quite rich enough in proteins and fats. The ordinary nuts should take the place of meat, fish or eggs, providing the "piece de resistance," so to speak.

It nuts are in the salad, keep in mind their food value while planning the rest of the meal. Don't repeat nuts two or three times in the same meal.

"Fletcherize" the nuts you eat and they will not cause indigestion.

Here are some suggestions as to how to use nuts to make the most of them.

Many an otherwise uninteresting dish is enlivened by the addition of a few nut meats. To this end it pays to keep some shelled nuts always on hand for emergencies. While you might hesitate to serve shredded cabbage to guests, a salad of this same shredded cabbage combined with apples and nuts is not only permissible but desirable.

This nut pudding is simple but so good. The woman on the farm with plenty of cream at her command will especially like this dessert.

NUT PUDDING

One-half cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons milk, 1 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon warm water, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/2 cup nut meats, 1/2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Add the 2 tablespoons milk to the brown sugar and melt over a slow fire. Stir in soda dissolved in warm water. Stir in milk and butter and add cornstarch dissolved in a little milk. Stir and cook until thick and smooth. Add nuts when removing from the fire. Cool and serve with cream whipped and sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

This nut loaf should form the main part of a meal.

NUT LOAF

One and one-half cups coarsely chopped nut meats, 2 cups bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 1/2 cup rich milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon sweet herbs, 1 egg.

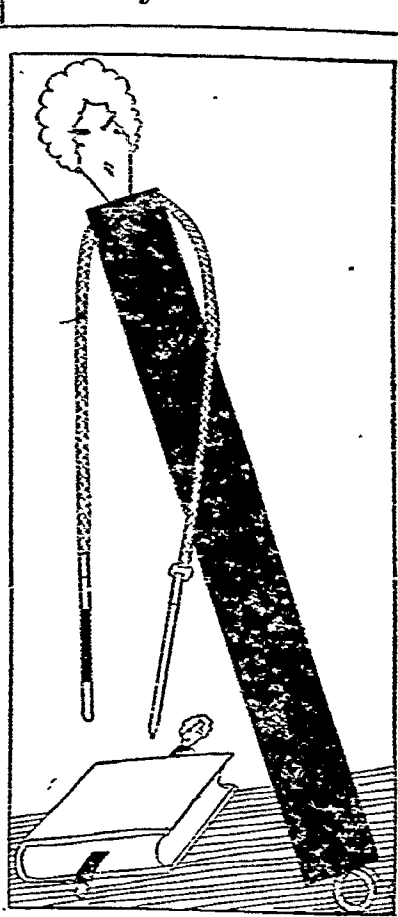

Mix nuts, crumbs and seasoning. Moisten with milk and add egg well beaten. Shape in a roll and bake half an hour, basting with 1 tablespoon butter melted in hot water. Serve with tomato or celery sauce.

Chestnuts and peanuts are not of the same food value as other nuts. Chestnuts are very starchy and should be used to replace starchy foods.

Peanuts belong to the legume family but are very rich in fat. They are an excellent and cheap food.

FOR BOOK LOVERS

This book mark is such a pleasing one it might actually inspire the person who receives it to use it instead of leaving the poor old book open, flat on its back—or face—to designate its own place.

It's easy to make, too. Just wind a little cotton silverglow yarn around a little cotton to make a head, and add hair and features to taste. Then cover a piece of buckram with ribbon to make the elongated costume. Braid a few strands of the yarn for arms and equip one extremity with a pencil and the other with a paper knife. And there you are!

Foods Canned In Sugar, Salt Botulism-Proof

Chicago — Foods preserved in saturated solution of either salt or sugar are proof against the deadly germs of botulism, Dr. John C. Geogier, epidemiologist of the United States public health service attached to the University of Chicago, declared. Other preserves put up in solutions neither decidedly acid or alkaline are susceptible to the botulism germs, he said.

Eight recent deaths from the poisoning for which no cure is now known were in five instances caused by the eating of preserved string beans and preserved chicken which had not been cooked or boiled before use, he said.

In three instances the persons affected had eaten preserved peaches, canned in a solution which was not saturated with sugar.

Dr. Geogier explained that most home preserved fruits were safe from the germs; included in the immune list are jellies, jams and pickled and preserved fruits which have been put up in sugar solutions.

Vegetables and meats are most susceptible and should be boiled thoroughly before using, he said.

LETTER FROM SIDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

I have been wondering, old chap, if I had better write you this letter. You may be sure that I would have come over and told what I am going to say to you if I could possibly have gotten away, but the Strathmore case comes up tomorrow and I must be in court. I think, however, you should know immediately what I am going to tell you.

Paula Perier came to town yesterday and sent for me to come over to the hotel. First I thought I would not go, as it seemed to me that the Perier episode was a chapter in your life that should be closed. However, she got me on the phone and begged me to come.

"The last time, it is, monsieur, that you will see Paula," she said in her queer little idiom, "and for all concerned, thinking I am, there are necessary some explanations."

Her voice was trembling, Jack, and I really felt sorry for her. I told her I would come over. "For Madame Perier you must ask," she said, "for I have with me 'l'enfant.'"

I arrived at the hotel and was shown up to Paula's room. Jack, you wouldn't know her. She has grown thin and pale. She has lost much of her vivacity, but she has gained immeasurably in a kind of madonnalike beauty. She seems all eyes and pathetic smile. I am sure she is going to make a great hit on the screen in a certain type of picture. She told me that she already had an offer from one of the big directors to take a small part in his next picture. "He is French, you know," she said, "and I think he first became interested in me because I spoke the language. At the house of a mutual friend I met him."

And then, Jack, she asked about you. "Is he well—is he happy?" she asked tremulously.

"No, he is not very happy just at present," I answered. And then I told her about Leslie.

Jack, I never liked Paula Perier as well as I did while she was listening to Leslie's unhappy story. "Poor, poor woman," she said. "It is I who know. It is I who sympathize can give, for through it all I have gone." And then without any embarrassment whatever she said, "My baby—would you like to see him?"

With that she went into the other room and brought out a little bundle of flannel and lace, and I swear to you, Jack, that as she held it to her breast she looked like the type that all of us conceive when we think of "Mother"—a mother with her first born. She pulled the little shawl away from the face of the child and I fairly gasped—for in her sleep that baby pulled down one corner of his mouth and wrinkled up his nose in exactly the same way you do, Jack. It was uncanny.

"Sweet, is he not?" she asked. Instead of answering, I questioned, "What are you going to do with him? Surely you are not going to take him out to Hollywood with you, are you?"

"But yes, with him I can do nothing else, and he is my baby—just mine alone. I do not have to answer to any one for him but Le Bon Dieu."

I could not help wondering, Jack, if you would have to answer to some good God, or some malignant devil, for that little helpless bit of humanity. If you ever saw him you could not deny him. And yet I do not think that Paula wants you even to acknowledge him, for when I asked her what she was going to call him she answered, "Paul Perier."

FASHION HINTS

EVENING SCARFS Very gorgeous scarfs for evening wear are of gold cloth richly embroidered with colorful stones, pearls or brilliants. They are at their best worn with the simplest of evening frocks.

GRAY DRAPED FROCK The gray draped frock is very fashionable this year, kept all in the one tone with perhaps just a hint of some coral or flame in the lining of the drapery or possibly a turban of brocaded silk or cloth of gold.

FUR BOW CUFFS Attractive cuffs on a new velvet frock are of fur tied in bows with ends a few inches long that give a charming softness to a very plain light sleeve.

GETTING SHORTER Skirts, except those on the most elaborate gowns, appear to be getting shorter. Coats, too, are shorter than last season.

FLOWER DESIGN Heavy silver flowers are embroidered on a chemise frock of crepe crepe, that ties in a large flat bow over the left hip.

CAPE ON FROCK One black velvet frock achieves an interesting effect by adding a short cape in the back lined with cloth of silver.

KOLINSKY BANDS Kolinsky is used to band gowns of the most delicate satin and crepe this season, and is made to look more supple and silken than ever before.

ORIENTAL HINT Coats and dresses of patterned velvets and tissues, with a suggestion of Persian rugs and India prints about them, are very popular this season.

DAYTON, O.—You might never have heard of the Berlin Bomber, or you might never have shown any interest in it, if you had heard of it.

But there's one woman to whom the name, "Barling Bomber," means everything in the world—the achievement of all the hopes and prayers she breathed in past years.

That woman is Mrs. Jessie Barling, wife of the inventor of this airplane which, in itself, is considered of revolutionary type in the development of aviation.

So deeply engrossed has this little woman been in the successful struggle of her husband that she even let him litter the house with his plans and instruments! And when a woman lets her husband go that far at home she must be a certain accomplice in his machinations.

She was and she's proud of it. "All that a wife can do is to keep in step and help a man concentrate," she comments.

When the work was accomplished, and Barling had gained his success, she had so much faith in his product as to take a ride in it. Leaving her two-year-old daughter with a friend, she donned a flier's uniform and went up beside her husband.

"It was wonderful," was her remark after alighting, "to really ride in the plane after watching it grow from the very beginning."

Mrs. Barling's love of adventure may keep her in this country indefinitely.

"I do not think I shall ever wish to return to England to live there," she says. "It is too finished. Here in America the great distances suggest adventure."

"WHIP GREEN BAY" BATTLECRY OF HIGH SCHOOL

Conference Football Title Hinges On Game With Baymen Saturday

Wilson's Team Putting In Extra Licks Of Practice To Down Hereditary Foe—Baymen Have Strong Eleven

Displaying a quantity and quality of pep that is almost amazing, Coach David Wilson's high school football team are putting in hard work of practice for the title with East Green Bay high school at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon. The team made up almost entirely of beginners in the game, but the art of football is completing a season that has been far more successful than the most sanguine had hoped for when the first whistle blew this fall. It has been a season of defeat, and that in spite of the fact that every conference team it played was heavier and more experienced than the squad sent into action by Coach Wilson.

Marquette, a non-conference team, defeated the high school but that is hardly a blot on the boys' record. Marquette has a team composed of veterans who have played together for two and three years and the squad is much heavier. The Marquette team had the edge in weight and experience but it had not a thing on the Applington squad in fighting ability and game. And it was these qualities which enabled the team to escape defeat in conference games.

NO STARS ON TEAM
It will not be a team of stars which faces East Green Bay here Saturday afternoon. There is scarcely a player on the squad who outranges any other player. It is a well drilled team, coordinated in every phase of football, but will give East Green Bay a battle. It is doubtful if Applington high school ever before had so successful a season without a single outstanding star.

The team play and the fight of football is a sight for football fans. There is a coordination of backfield and line, a precision in execution of plays, and a snap in the way the youngsters move about the field that would be a credit to a college team. The team is never backed. It thrives on opposition.

HEREDITARY FOE
A win over East Green Bay would be the most satisfying thing the team has done this year, according to high school students. It would give Applington undisputed championship of the valley conference and would mean the defeat of Applington's hereditary foe in the conference. There was a time when Oshkosh was considered "the enemy of Applington" but since that Saturday afternoon when East Green Bay, aided and abetted by the great Jimmy Crowley, now of Notre Dame, pushed Applington out of the running for the state gridiron championship, Green Bay has been considered the hereditary foe of the Orange and Blue.

And so it is that Wilson's boys are showing more than their usual pep this week when Oshkosh is considered "the enemy of Applington" but since that Saturday afternoon when East Green Bay, aided and abetted by the great Jimmy Crowley, now of Notre Dame, pushed Applington out of the running for the state gridiron championship, Green Bay has been considered the hereditary foe of the Orange and Blue.

SYRACUSE TO MEET COLGATE SATURDAY

Pennsylvania Colleges Clash In Battle For Final Intra-state Rating

By Associated Press
New York—Not the least important game on Saturday's schedule of college football contests is that which will bring together the eleven of Syracuse and Colgate at the Syracuse stadium.

This year Syracuse, with victories over every foe thus far and with its goal line unbreached, is a "hot" favorite.

Of unusual importance is the game because it will feature in itself the final rating of the leading eastern college eleven.

It will also serve as a basis of comparison of the claims of Syracuse and Cornell for top honors.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE
Superior at River Falls.
LaCrosse at Platteville.
Whitefish at Milwaukee.

Oshkosh—In the Wisconsin normal school conference, Oshkosh has completed its schedule of normal schools and has come through without a defeat. By its defeat of Milwaukee Normal school last week, Oshkosh won its fifth consecutive victory over Wisconsin normal schools. It had previously beaten the Northern Michigan State normal school, Marquette, Oshkosh has scored 149 points this far this year and its opponents have totaled only 18.

PLAN THANKSGIVING GAME
Suggestion has been made that should River Falls defeat Superior and thus come into a tie with Oshkosh, a championship game should be arranged to be played in Oshkosh on Thanksgiving Day. If, however, River Falls is defeated Saturday by Superior, Oshkosh then would be undisputed champion of the conference.

OTHER CONFERENCE GAMES
Two other conference games will be played this week, but they will have no bearing on the championship. Whitefish will meet Milwaukee at Milwaukee, and La Crosse and Platteville will play at Platteville. All of these schools have been beaten one or more times except LaCrosse, which tied with Milwaukee. LaCrosse, however, is not a member of the conference this year, having scheduled only two conference games while the rule calls for three.

OSHKOSH MEETS RIPON
There is one other game in which a normal school will participate this week which is the center of great interest. On Friday, Oshkosh Normal meets Ripon college at Oshkosh. These schools have been rivals in athletics for many years. In the last three years Oshkosh has beaten Ripon twice in football and Ripon has won once.

YOST MUST FIND UTERITZ SUB TO DEFEAT BADGERS

Minnesota On Edge For Homecoming Battle Against Iowa Saturday

Chicago—Upon the ability of Coach Yost to develop a quarterback who can effectively fill the place left open by the injury to brother Uteritz depends in a large measure on the outcome of the Michigan-Wisconsin football game Saturday. Football followers are agreed. The Wolverines must win the game and then overcome Minnesota on Nov. 24, to hold a claim to the western conference title.

Coach Ryan's Badgers are showing a fight in scrimmage that indicates a stiff contest against Michigan.

The Badger regulars are all in good shape. Michigan, without the service of Uteritz is depending on Parker and Rockwell to fill his shoes.

MINNESOTA ON EDGE
Minnesota is on edge for the Saturday game against Iowa's Homecoming for the Gophers is bringing thousands of fans back for the contest that will determine whether Coach Spaulding's eleven can stay in the running for the championship with a clean state. Iowa's team will be the strongest it has put on the field this season, according to reports from the university.

The success Chicago displayed with its forward pass attack against Indiana last week is causing observers to predict the Chicago-Iowa contest on Saturday will provide an excellent aerial display.

Northwestern, during its practice scrimmages preparatory to the Purple game at LaPlatte Saturday, failed to show any great strength.

CHICAGO EXPECTS RECORD ENTRIES IN BOWLING MEET

March 23, Set As Date For Annual American Tenpin Congress

Chicago—The twenty-fourth annual American bowling congress will set another record entry mark with indications pointing to competition between 2,200 teams. A. L. Langtry, secretary of the congress announced Wednesday.

The thousands of bowlers come to Chicago March 23, for their annual national contest. The 1923 show held at Milwaukee early this year brought out 1,955 teams.

It is expected that Milwaukee is to send 300 teams to the 1924 congress and Detroit 125, while Chicago's entry list will probably run far over this number.

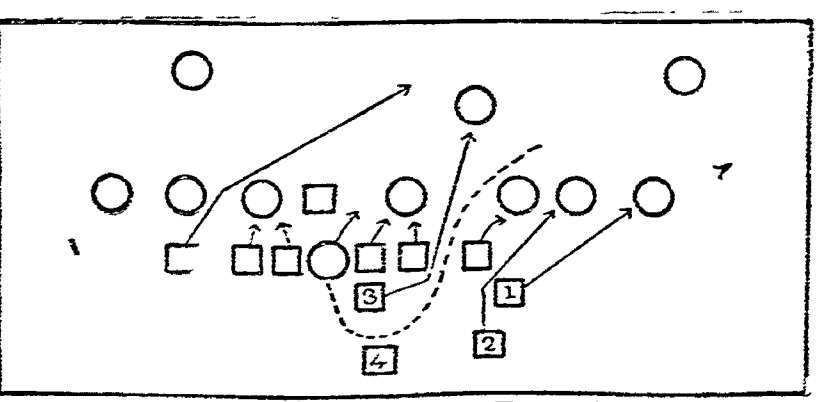

The first six days of the tournament are to be allotted to Chicago teams, which intend to set a pace that will make visiting bowlers step in order to land in the prize money which is expected to exceed $30,000.

Picking my favorite play is a difficult task in the modern game of football. The new game offers so many possibilities that a certain play which would be highly favored under proper conditions would be hardly under consideration.

The left guard and left tackle check tackle. The left end checks tackle and through for secondary. Back No. 1 takes defensive end. Back No. 2 helps on defensive tackle. Back No. 3 through hole for secondary. Back No. 4 receives ball on direct pass and drives through hole. This play is invariably good for from two to four yards.

TRACKMEN EXCITED AS IN MEMORIAM-ZEV MATCH APPROACHES

Greatest Crowd Of Season Expected To See Race At Louisville Saturday

Louisville, Ky.—Assured that in Memoriam and Zev will clash here on Saturday, providing the track at Churchill Downs is good, or, at least will afford firm footing, officials of the Kentucky Jockey club are making preparations to handle a crowd that bids fair to rival the Derby Day throngs on last May 2.

With the clash at the shorter route, over a mile and a quarter, all sorts of debates are taking place over the relative merits of the two great colts at this distance. It is surprising the amount of support in Memoriam has mustered from native Kentuckians, many of whom profited by his victory in the Latonia championships ten days ago.

$30,000 TO WINNER
The size of the purse, which is $30,000 including a $10,000 side bet by each owner and a $10,000 offering from the Kentucky Jockey club, has come in for considerable comment. It was at first expected such a race might command a purse of close to $100,000 and some talk of a prize of that size was heard.

The owner of the Panchos star evidently believes that the winning back of some of the laurels Zev took at Latonia will be reward enough, however, and word of Zev's shipment from Pimlico for Churchill Downs is expected on Tuesday.

The conditions of the $10,000 play of pay side bet, however, has aroused a sporting angle seldom known here in any of the rich Kentucky stakes of modern years. To the old timers it brings back memories of the Spirit Worth meeting at Latonia many years ago.

2 YEAR OLDS RACE
The $25,000 Kentucky Jockey club stakes for 2 year olds, which will provide a meeting between Wise Counselor and Happy Thoughts, also will be decided on Saturday and this, added to the match race feature, has caused General Manager Matt Winn of the Jockey Club to make plans to handle one of the greatest crowds of the Kentucky season, which ends with Saturday's card.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Sheboygan got back on victory row by taking Fond du Lac into camp in a Valley conference game by the score of 23 to 0. The Chairs got off on the right foot and they were never headed. Iverson's team seems to have fully recovered from its two game slump.

Fondy was outweighed but not out-gamed by the Chairmakers. Coach Royal's pigskin chasers gave away a lot of poundage and this counted before the final whistle blew. The Cardinal crier died with their boots on as they were in their fighting every minute against heavy odds.

Continuing its superb football, Marinette walked all over Menominee in the yearly clash between the schools. The Michiganers were hopelessly outclassed by Coach Johnson's team. Marinette worked like a well oiled machine and mowed down its opponents at will.

The championship of the Valley conference will be at stake, this Saturday when East Green Bay and Applington lock horns here. The Bay eleven should rule favorites but Wilson's squad is sitting ready for the first and hopes to put quite a decided dent in the dope bucket.

Young Stoner McGlynn, son of the old State league umpire, turned in quite a picnic field Sunday while playing with the Manitowish City team against Sheboygan. Receiving the kick off, back of his goal line he dashed down the field a hundred yards for a touchdown.

There is more than one way to skin a cat. The W. I. A. put the ban on West Allis for violating the city's blue code. This situation prevents the school from meeting any other scholastic squad. But West Allis played just the same. They met the Alumni and took a 27 to 7 licking.

The decision of the W. I. A. heard of control against any state championship football games is meeting with as much condemnation as the action of the Big Ten, ruling out Coach the star Wisconsin tackle. Dame Turner has it that several of the schools may ignore the ultimatum.

Applington fans will have an opportunity to see what promises to be the best bout in years when "Gunner" Joe Quinn and Bob Devine stage their return about at Armory G Nov. 20. At their first meeting here last month the Gunner had his hands full in spite of Devine's weakened condition caused by a lone session in the event room, shortly before the fight and as both sluggers have been training steadily since then they should put up an even better scrap this time.

Clever Tackle

Last season Captain Marty Below of Wisconsin was generally picked as an all-western tackle. This year he is playing in even better form. He hopes to lead his team to victory against Michigan in the coming clash between the two institutions in an attempt to wipe out the sting of last Saturday's defeat at Urbana.

WEIGHT SQUABBLE ENDS IN VICTORY FOR MIKE GIBBONS

Quinn's Manager Insists Devine Train Down To Middle-weight Mark

Mike Gibbons and Leo Fornicani have been having a little row of their own over the weights of their respective charges who are to meet here at Armory G, Nov. 20, but an agreement has been reached at last and all arrangements as to the signing of contracts and posting of forfeits have been completed. When the contracts were drawn up for their previous battle it was agreed that the fighters were to weigh in at not to exceed 160 pounds at 3 P. M. on the day of the contest. Devine's weight was announced as 159 1/2 pounds, while Quinn's was one pound less. Mike Gibbons insisted on 155 pounds for the coming battle, the legitimate middleweight mark, to which Fornicani objected on the grounds that it is not a championship match, but finally gave in and agreed to 155.

SHOWS IMPORTANCE OF FIGHT
Seldom has a weight controversy taken place in a town of this size, and the fact that both managers placed great importance on that question indicates that the local fight will have great bearing on the futures of the principals. Quinn's reputation as a boxer has been permanently established in the United States and Canada, while Devine is struggling hard to get into the limelight on this side of the water. He has been very successful in the east, and made a favorable impression in his few fights in the west.

With both boys in splendid condition, the stage is being set for one of the prettiest boxing contests ever seen here. Quinn is confident that he can repeat his performance of last month, but expects a harder job to do it, while Devine says St. Paul will be draped in mourning when the "Gunner" gets back there.

FILM PRESERVES LAST CATTLE DRIVE OF WEST FOR AGES

Hollywood — Movie cameras are mounted on the cow trails to perpetuate the last great cattle drive of the west—out where fences have not yet crawled over the horizon.

This round-up was not planned for the motion picture, but has been utilized by Associated First National Pictures as the basis for an epic of the range, to be filmed under the title "Sundown." It is to be done on a lavish scale with a historical perspective.

For weeks riders have been converging three mighty herds from the uplands of Utah, Arizona and New Mexico for the last long drive into Mexico, a final effort of concentration and co-operation to prevent financial ruin. A quarter of a million steers are being massed. And in the dust of their thundering hooves will fade the romantic period of the American herdsman. For it is hardly possible that such a number of beeves, a modest rodeo in the herdsman of the range, will ever again be assembled.

OLDTIMERS IN
Old compunchers of the west, many of them grizzled and a bit creaky in the joints, have asked with pained eagerness to participate in the making of "Sundown," a print of which will be offered to the Smithsonian Institution as an animated record of vanished time.

Earl Hudson, production chief for First National, conceived the idea and wrote the story around the range exodus. Francis Marion contributed the scenario trimmings. The cast of ideas could not have been announced until the release of film don'ts best known horsemen. Their part, however, will be subordinate to the drama of the herd.

The story is to be kept very simple. Beginning with the unfenced range it will show the breaking up of the cowboy and the government; the great westward encroachment of settlement; the ranches; the dwindling of the cattle; the recessions of the range herds before the plow and the highway. No villains, no rustlers, no gunplay in the film, it has been announced; but plenty of action and suspense, never theless.

SOME INSERTS

I have seen some of the insert shots of cattle to be incorporated in the picture. They show the bringing of one of the three big herds to the rendezvous: long files of stock moving off the Arizona plateaus to the Colorado river and ferried across—having in it something of the melancholy that always inheres in an exodus, of humans

Then I talked with Roy Stewart, picture actor and veteran of the saddle, who had acted as film scout with the herd and will be one of the featured players in "Sundown." He had just returned from a strange threshold of that reterday which the picture will attempt to reconstruct in lower Utah, after a 700-mile horseback ride.

"I saw," he said, "old men tucking up their heads to play marble under the glare of a desert sun. I saw some of them read magazines brought in, skyily, then burn them before children of 21 might become curious about strange things. I observed them standing about bearded bishops of their church, reading scripture by dancing desert fire.

In quite the same nostalgic mood which stirred Roy Stewart upon his return from the trail to yesterday, another generation a few years hence may view the moving phantom of America's pastoral period in pictures like "Sundown"—unless by that time, too, movies as we now have them will have followed anachronistic pioneering and grazing herds into limbo.

ings and sawdust were scattered on the kitchen floor where the blaze is believed to have started. The damage is estimated at about $400.
